PRICE FIVE CENTS

MUST PAY $30 FINE AND REPAY $162 TO STATE

William E. Myers, Gettysburg R. 2, has been fined $30 and directed to make $162 restitution to the state Bureau of Employment Security, according to the docket of Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Myers was charged before the justice by Edward L. Shields, representing the local employment office staff, with "making false statements in receiving unemployment compensation."

According to the justice's docket, Myers was employed during a period while he was receiving unemployment compensation and accepted the checks and did not tell the bureau that he was employed.

BARRED FOR YEAR

The justice said the charge against Myers disqualifies him from receiving any unemployment compensation from Pennsylvania, even though he might otherwise be entitled to it, for a period of a year.

Justice Snyder gave Myers a month to pay the $30 fine and costs and make the restitution of $162 and noted that the statute provides that Myers could have been charged with a separate offense for each of the six checks he received, and could have been fined up to $200 on each of the cases.

Ten-day notices were sent by the justice in two other cases. Jack E. Stoops, Waynesboro, was charged with a stop sign violation and George Reaver, Hanover, was charged by Gettysburg College Policeman L. C. Hamme with a stop sign violation.

Samuel J. King, 43 Liberty St., charged before the justice with nonsupport, posted $500 bail to appear in court on the charge.

PATROLS AT 21 AREA SCHOOLS TO BE HONORED

Gettysburg and Adams County school safety patrol members will be given recognition for their work at events planned in April and May by the AAA Gettysburg Motor Club and the AAA Motor Club of Harrisburg.

Boys and girls serving 21 schools in Adams County will be cited for honors for the first time since the merger of the AAA Gettysburg Motor Club with the AAA Motor Club of Harrisburg on July 1, 1960. The events are planned by the AAA club as part of a nationwide observance of the 60th anniversary of the American Automobile Association.

Youngsters serving on patrols in Adams County will be guests of the motor club at the Shrine Circus to be held April 23-28 in the Farm Show arena, and some will join a Washington-bound caravan to participate in the 26th annual AAA school safety patrol parade in the nation's capital on Saturday, May 12.

PAIRED BY MANAGER

The AAA Motor Club of Harrisburg for the 12th consecutive year will be host to some 2,800 patrol members at the Shrine Circus and will coordinate plans for the 15th annual trip to the nation's capital.

Gettysburg and county school safety patrols came under the supervision of the AAA banner at the start of the present school term, and the 21 public and parochial schools in the county were furnished with AAA school safety materials.

William E. Miller, general manager of the AAA Motor Club, praised members of the patrols in the county for helping to maintain "the spotless record" established by youngsters in the club's territory for the 1961-62 school year.

"Club officials," said Miller, "are justifiably proud to laud the performance of these boys and girls."

GROWERS ARE MUSSELMAN'S DINNER GUESTS

"The U.S. farmer is our daily declaration of independence since the origin of all products can be traced to soil and water," Charles A. Hilt, agricultural relations manager for Pet Milk Company, St. Louis, said in addressing the C. H. Musselman Company's annual cherry-raspberry growers' banquet Thursday evening in the cafeteria of the Biglerville plant.

Hilt was introduced by J. A. Hauser, company president, the toastmaster for the banquet attended by more than 250 growers and their wives. The invocation was given by Luther M. Lady.

Special music was furnished by Eloise Gouker and James Buffenmyer, accompanied by David Bucher, from the music department of Gettysburg College.

CITES PARALLELS

Mr. Hauser introduced these special guests: Elmer H. Schriever, George Glenn and Charles Smith, county high school vocationists; Dean Asquith, entomologist, and Dr. Frank Hewettson, horticulturist, of the Arendtsville Fruit Research Laboratories, and a group of 20 cherry growers from West Virginia.

In his opening remarks Mr. Hilt drew a parallel of the business philosophy and grower relations between the C. H. Musselman Company and Pet Milk Company, principals in a merger which occurred in July, 1961.

Mr. Hilt used the following quotation from William Jennings Bryan: "Do not suppress the agriculture of our country. Let it flourish. If agriculture prospers, cities will spring up over this nation as if by magic, but if our (Continued On Page 2)

WGET WILL BE AN FM STATION IN FEW WEEKS

Some time in April, the exact date to be announced later, WGET, "The Voice of Adams County," will become an FM radio station... a frequency modulation station. This is the ultimate in fine music and fidelity, the closest thing to perfection obtainable.

The frequency of the FM station will be 107.7 megacycles, compared with the present AM 1,320 kilocycles. A megacycle is the equivalent of one million cycles. Hence the new FM will be 107,700,000 cycles per second compared with 1,320,000 cycles per second under AM.

To attain this perfection in broadcasting WGET has installed the most modern equipment obtainable. It includes a new 1,000-watt Gates FM transmitter, a new Gates console and a new audio equipment to give WGET the finest in FM broadcasting.

OPERATE 2 STATIONS

Under the new feature WGET will operate two radio stations under the same roof, an AM station and an FM station, although there will be separate programming approximately 80 per cent of the time. The same programs will be on AM and FM, but the latter reception will be much sharper.

WGET has also acquired exclusive rights to one of the newest and most complete programs of music especially selected and prepared for this type of programming that can be secured. It is called "Programatic" and will feature classic and semiclassical music. WGET's exclusive covers four counties in Pennsylvania and five counties in Maryland.

The AM broadcasts will continue as before from 6 a.m. until midnight and the FM broadcasts will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until midnight.

Two Communist Officials, Ex-Convicts, Are Arrested For Failing To Register

NEW YORK (AP)—Two top-ranking American Reds, Gus Hall and Benjamin J. Davis, have been arrested in the first crackdown on Communist party officials who refuse to register the party with the government under the Subversive Activities Control Act.

They were allowed to go free overnight, but were ordered to post bail of $5,000 each today.

Hall, 51, and Davis, 58, were arrested by U.S. marshals late Thursday at the American Communist party headquarters in the Chelsea section of Manhattan.

The arrests were made on warrants shortly after a federal grand jury in Washington indicted the two men on six counts each.

HOLD HIGH OFFICE

Hall was listed as the Communist party's general secretary and Davis as national secretary. Davis, a Negro, was a member of the New York City Council years ago when a short-lived proportional representation system made it possible for a candidate of such a minority party to get elected.

Both Hall and Davis have served prison terms on Smith Act convictions for conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by force and violence.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who announced the indictments, commented in Washington that neither the indictments nor earlier actions by the government in the same field means that the U.S. Communist party is outlawed or that membership in it is illegal.

Registration with the government is required in many fields, he said.

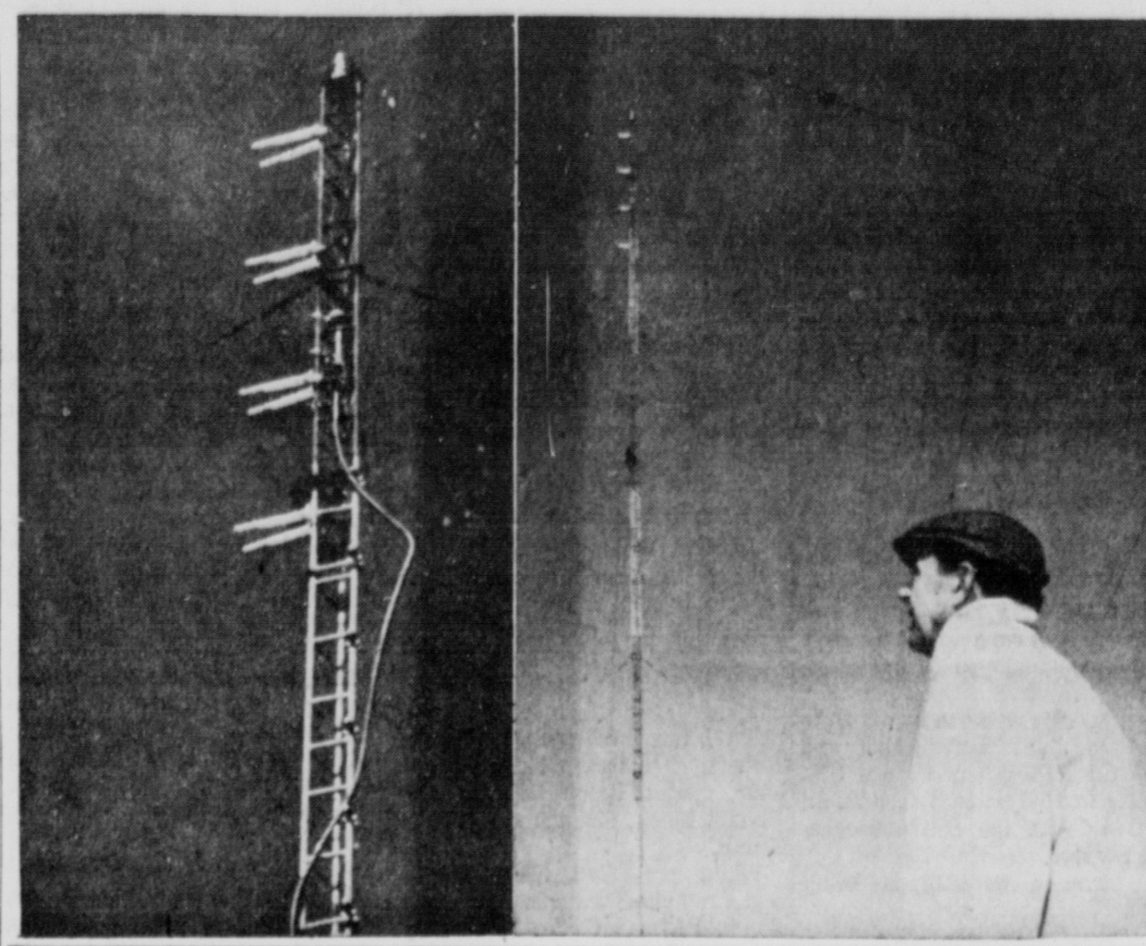

Kennedy said he wanted to clear up misunderstanding that he found overseas during his recent tour.

John Abt, counsel for Hall and Davis, said here he was certain that both would plead innocent. He said the Communist party takes the position that the 1950 law under which they were indicted is unconstitutional because it violates the privilege against self-incrimination.

If convicted, they would face a possible maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count of the six-count indictment.

WGET Installs FM Facilities

REINBERGER SPEAKER FOR HEALTH GROUP

Prof. Francis Reinberger, the Elizabeth Graf professor of practical theology at the local seminary, spoke to the Adams County Mental Health Association at a luncheon session Thursday at the Lamp Post Tea Room on the subject "Clinical Pastoral Training or Education."

He spent a year studying at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, and last summer at the Danville State Hospital. He said the idea for pastoral training in this field began in the 1920's and came from Anton Boyson, out of his own experiences. Since then thousands of clergymen, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, have taken such training. He spoke on these values of the training: Participant observation under supervision, the glimpse afforded into interpersonal leadership, understanding of personality in and through crisis situations, increase of self-insight and discovery of the church and the community under judgment. He said: "There must be more care expressed by the church and the community for the deep-lying needs of man. There are three implications in this: The relation of love to the discovery of personhood, the need for involvement in the group that cares and the relation of scientific expansion into religious experience." Discussion by the group followed the talk.

HONOR HORST AT FFA-YFA DINNER AT BHS

Donald Horst of the C. H. Musselman Co. was presented with the Honorary Chapter Farmer degree by the Upper Adams Future Farmers of America Thursday night at a joint dinner of the FFA and the Young Farmers' Association of Upper Adams at the Biglerville High School.

The presentation of the honorary degree, the 19th to be given by the chapter to adults for their outstanding contribution to agriculture and the Future Farmers since the chapter was established 24 years ago, was made by the chapter officers.

During the program, Horst presented Richard Cooley, secretary of the FFA chapter, with a check from the C. H. Musselman Co. covering cooley's expenses to the FFA week program to be held at Pennsylvania State University in June. The check was one of two awards Cooley will receive for securing first place in the apple judging contest held for FFA students at the South Mountain Fair last June.

He will be presented with the trophy for that feat at the area FFA banquet in the spring.

One-hundred-twenty attended the dinner which was the 23rd for the FFA and the fourth held jointly with the Young Farmers Association.

Terry Sheaffer, president of the FFA, was master of ceremonies. Ronald Schatz, FFA chaplain, gave the invocation. The roast beef dinner was prepared by Mrs. Olive Sheats and staff while the Senior Future Homemakers Club helped serve the meal.

40,000 HELP QUELL REVOLT

GUATAMALA (AP) — President Miguel Ydigoras Thursday night claimed 40,000 supporters were streaming into Guatemala City to join the army in crushing a revolt he charged was led by Castro-Communist elements.

Bitter clashes broke out Thursday in the capital of Central America's most populous republic as thousands of demonstrators led by students blocked traffic, set fire to automobiles and smashed store windows. All bus and most railway service in the capital was paralyzed.

Hospital spokesmen said they counted 4 dead and 72 injured. (A traveler arriving in Panama from Guatemala said the situation in the country was serious and that the government had clamped censorship on all outgoing calls and dispatches.)

The fighting climaxed a series of outbursts by students charging fraud in last December's election, which returned Ydigoras' conservative party to power in Congress.

Ydigoras, a bitter foe of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, claimed the army was remaining loyal to his government and said a popular uprising of support was emerging throughout the country.

CEASE-FIRE SEEMS NEARER

EVIAN, France (AP) — Prospects for a French-Algerian cease-fire appeared improved today following agreement on the role of the rebel army in the period between the armistice and independence of the North African territory.

Both French and Algerian informants at the peace talks predicted a cease-fire might be proclaimed over the weekend by President Charles de Gaulle and the rebel premier, Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

The informants reported general progress Thursday in a long day of negotiations after the talks had appeared headed for deadlock.

The two delegations agreed that the rebel army units would retain the positions they hold in the Algerian interior and would have some freedom of movement around those positions. Previously the French had demanded that they be closely confined to certain camps or areas.

GROWERS ARE

agriculture is suppressed as if by a crown of thorns, grass will grow in the streets of the cities of this nation." Hilt said agriculture is the "bulwark of our national economy. It furnishes food and fiber which gives this nation the standard of the highest living in the world. For example, in Russia more than 40 per cent of the people are engaged in agriculture, compared with less than 12 per cent in the U.S." He quoted from a recent article in the Wall Street Journal which states that since World War II Russia has increased planted acreage by 50 per cent but production has increased only 30 per cent. In the same period of time the U.S. has reduced sown acres by 13 per cent but production has increased 35 per cent.

He stressed the place of the family farm in the American agricultural scene which will exist as long as it produces a high quality product efficiently and economically.

The banquet was prepared under the direction of the regular cafeteria staff under the direction of Mrs. Mary F. Bryan with supervisory and office personnel serving as waiters.

GETS DIVORCE IN RENO TODAY

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller is expected to end her 31-year marriage to the New York governor today.

Her attorney, William K. Woodburn, conferred Thursday with a judge in Reno's District Court. Then he told newsmen that Mrs. Rockefeller would obtain her divorce in Reno and not in an outlying district. He refused to say exactly when his tall, slender, 54-year-old client would file.

Mrs. Rockefeller arrived in Nevada Feb. 1 and has spent the six weeks required for residency for a Nevada divorce. She has been riding and hiking at a guest ranch in the foothills west of Reno.

DAUGHTERS VISIT HER

Her daughters, Mrs. Robert L. Pierson and Mrs. William Stravbridge, returned to New York Thursday after visiting their mother at the ranch.

The 53-year-old governor was not expected to contest the divorce action.

JULES SWOPE IS LAUDED BY TRADE PAPER

Julius Swope, operator of two local service stations, is praised in the February issue of "Super Service," the national publication for the petroleum retailing industry. The magazine has a circulation of 115,000 copies each month.

Swope's Carlisle St. station is featured on the front cover of the magazine. Five pages are devoted to the story which is illustrated with 11 pictures and is divided into a general story entitled "Meet Jules Swope, Operator Extraordinary"; a smaller story entitled "How Station Expanded to Meet Rising Demand"; and a special story on the "Sip and Munch Shop" on the premises, entitled "S2900 Prefab Snack Building Earns $100-$150 a Month."

The lead of the main story which is subtitled "Special promotion, sparkling merchandising and community activities build $375,000 volume in historic city of 8,000," states:

"AN IDEA MAN"

"Mr. Gettysburg, Pa., in the minds of much of the American public may be that historic city's illustrious suburbanite, Dwight D. Eisenhower. But to many hundreds of citizens of this city adjacent to the battlefield where the tide of the War between the States was turned, and to thousands of visitors each year, Mr. Gettysburg is Jules Swope, service station operator extraordinary.

"Mr. Swope is an idea man. Ideas emanate from him like sparks from a Roman candle.

"He is a merchandiser who can convert the 'sparks' into practical down-to-earth sales-builders."

MANY ACTIVITIES

"He is active in the Rotary Club, the Elks, the Country Club and other civic, fraternal and social organizations. He sponsors five bowling teams. He is a director of the Gettysburg Little League for baseball. He is a member of the Gettysburg Volunteer Fire Department and its ambulance corps. On one ambulance run he helped to deliver a baby.

"Mr. Swope also teaches safety to classes of high school students. A teaching program under consideration includes classes for women drivers who want to know more about their automobiles."

"HOME OF MY HEART"

The home of my heart is in your arms . . . in the warmth of your caress . . . for in the harbor of your arms . . . I find my happiness . . . when the seas of life are turbulent . . . close to you the skies are fair . . . so it isn't any wonder that . . . I am prone to linger there . . . in your fond embrace there is tenderness . . . of a most endearing kind . . . spelling faith and hope and truest love . . . these are treasures which I find . . . I can come to you with an aching heart . . . shrouded in the clouds of fear . . . but when I depart I take with me . . . a heart aglow with cheer . . . like the blessed touch of springtime . . . with a thousand special charms . . . such is the magic splendor . . . I feel within your arms . . . they say home is where the heart is . . . what they say is far from wrong . . . for I find a special haven . . . in your arms where I belong.

JAMES MYERS, HEAD OF PARK, NAVY VETERAN

Responsible for a welter of administrative duties in the development of the government facility at the Cyclorama site, James B. Myers, superintendent of the battlefield, has put in several rather busy months.

Myers, who came to his Gettysburg assignment in 1955, not only was called upon to direct much of the preliminary work at the Visitor Center, but the transition of the National Park offices from the post office to the new quarters in a wing of the Visitor Center, presented a difficult problem for him and his staff. He is a veteran of the National Park Service, having entered government work in December, 1936.

TAUGHT SCHOOL

His first job was a seasonal one at the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia. In the winters he taught in the high school at Staunton, Va. Later he was transferred to the regional office in Richmond, Va., where he remained until 1942, when he entered the Navy as an ensign. He served on convoy duty in the merchant ship armed guard with runs from New York to England and New York to North Africa. He was discharged as a lieutenant.

In 1944 he was transferred to the Pacific and was engaged with naval gun crews perfecting shore fire cover for the approaching Pacific landings. He was in the Leyte operation in 1944, at Luzon in 1945 and at Okinawa on Easter of the same year.

Returning to the Park Service, he served again in the Richmond office until 1947 when he was made superintendent at Manassas National Park. He was sent as superintendent to the Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Sites at Hyde Park, N.Y., in 1955, and then came to Gettysburg in 1958 as superintendent.

He is a native of Augusta County, Va. He was graduated from Bridgewater College and later did graduate work at the University of Virginia.

He is vice president of the Kiwanis Club, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Torch Club, American Legion and the Episcopal Church here, of which he is a vestryman. He and his wife, the former Miss Carol Faulconer of Orange, Va., reside on the historic Codori farm south of Gettysburg.

Elizabeth Rutledge, Adams County supervisor of special education, was the guest speaker at the March meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Littlestown following the community Lenten services on Wednesday evening, in the social room of the Eagles Home, W. King St. Miss Rutledge spoke in observance of National Health Week and her message concerned "problem" children, their emotions, manner of expression, adult recognition of problems, what to do and help given for these children.

The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag and the Junior Woman's Club pledge. Miss Janet Phillips, president, presided and heard the reports of Mrs. J. Showmaker, secretary, and Mrs. Harold Study, treasurer. A letter of thanks was read from the Littlestown Jointure Parent-Teacher Association for participation in the 1962 Jabberwock. The club received the third place award in the Jabberwock competition. The resignation of Mrs. Larry E. Sheets, York, was accepted with regret.

Mrs. Joseph McMasters and Mrs. Herbert J. Sell were voted the club delegates to the Community Center Group. Mrs. McMasters was elected secretary of the group. Mrs. Warren H. Wistozky reported for the cheer committee and read a note of thanks from Mrs. Bernard G. Kehl. The deadline for placing orders from the gadget books with Mrs. Richard N. Greenholt, is March 23. Dale Moore is in charge of the orders for plastic ware.

Volunteers were asked to provide transportation to Gettysburg for the local child for cerebral palsy therapy. The club has been transporting a local child to Harrisburg for dental treatments. It was decided to cancel sponsoring a spring bon due to other community activities. The club agreed to cooperate with the Littlestown Junior Chamber of Commerce in co-sponsoring a pending Jaycee project.

A donation of $15 was voted to the Warner Hospital. Miss Phillips called a meeting of the executive board from Monday, April 2 at her home, near town. The March jackpot was received by Mrs. Harold Study. One guest, Mrs. J. Scott Zanger, was introduced.

Slayton Forced Out Of Next Flight Into Space Due To Heart Condition

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — A heart condition detected more than two years ago will keep astronaut Donald K. Slayton from becoming the next American to venture into space.

The assignment of following along the trail blazed by John H. Glenn Jr. will go instead to M. Scott Carpenter, another member of the seven-man Mercury space team.

The switch in plans was announced Thursday night by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Earlier in the day an Air Force medical board had reviewed Slayton's condition — an "erratic heart rate" — and advised against his attempting the physically trying space mission.

The space agency said the heart trouble was detected in November 1959, but it was decided to keep the former jet pilot in the program while keeping a close watch on his condition.

Slayton was to have made the second U.S. orbital flight within the next month or two. Like Glenn he was to have circled the earth three times in a Mercury capsule.

Carpenter, 36, a Navy flier, was Glenn's backup pilot last Feb. 20. He, in turn, will be

Torture Aged Pair In Vain Before Slaying

JASPER, Tenn. (AP) — Although tortured with fire and scalding water, an elderly brother and sister apparently refused to reveal their hidden wealth before they finally were shot to death.

"It's hard to understand the mentality of anyone who could inflict such excruciating pain as this on an old man and woman," said Kenneth Shelton, an agent of the Tennessee Bureau of Identification.

Shelton released an autopsy report Thursday night which showed that Grant Carter, 71, and his sister, Tora, 77, were tortured for hours before being shot.

Funeral home attendants found $4,900 in $100 bills folded inside an envelope in Carter's shirt pocket and $3,900, also in $100 bills, pinned to his sister's clothing.

The bodies were discovered Wednesday by friends who came to visit them on their isolated farm just off U.S. 41 Carter and his sister lived alone. Their home had been ripped apart.

"It is apparent," Shelton said, "that both Carter and his sister were cruelly tortured for two hours or longer as the intruders sought to force from them information about their money."

The torture, he said, included such things as burning matches held to fingers, live coals from a stove dropped down the collar, heavy blows across the face and head and scalding water poured over the victims from head to foot.

10 Americans Hurt In Rome Accident

ROME (AP) — A bus carrying 40 American tourists collided with a truck south of Rome today and 10 of the Americans were injured, three of them seriously.

The Americans were on their way from Rome to Naples to take a boat to the Isle of Capri.

The accident occurred about 20 miles south of Rome as the cold, misty March weather in 20 years gripped Rome and much of Italy. One of the most seriously injured was Sylvia Fisher Green, 51, of Long Island, no town or street address) who suffered fractures of both legs, a brain concussion and severe shock.

Four others who were given first aid treatment and released were Mrs. Green's husband, Harry, 55; Mildred Concanon, 54, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Godson of Snyder, N.Y.

Coulson Talks On Radio Thursday

In a radio talk Thursday morning at 11:45 o'clock on WGET, Assistant County Superintendent of Schools M. Francis Coulson discussed "Preparing Your Child for School."

Speaking of the importance of the parents' role in making school "a meaningful, pleasant experience for the child," Mr. Coulson suggested seven ways in which parents can help youngsters get ready for school or kindergarten and concluded:

"A good beginning for the child in kindergarten or in the first grade will determine to a great extent his success through the elementary school, the junior high school, the senior high school and even through college. Parents who wholeheartedly prepare their child for these school experiences will find that they have paved the way for a zestful journey to ever-new worlds of living and learning."

Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Larceny

Herman Lee Baum, 31, Ridge Ave., Carlisle, pleaded guilty Thursday before Justice of the Peace Anna Thompson to a larceny charge brought by state police.

He was placed in the county jail following the hearing and then later in the day was released upon posting $500 bail to appear for sentence by the Adams County Court.

State police said Baum pleaded guilty to stealing a drill, the property of Robert Mansberger, of the Duffy-Mott plant at Aspers, October, 1961. Mansberger, an electrician at the Aspers plant, had the drill there as one of his tools. Police said the drill later passed into other hands and eventually Baum was discovered as the one who had taken the drill.

Another man placed in the county jail Thursday was Bud Sweitzer, 61, Findlay, Ohio, charged by borough police before Justice Thompson with being disorderly.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Miss Truman's Debut Launched: Margaret Truman, 23-year-old daughter of the President, today looked back on a "big thrill"—her triumphant debut as a soprano soloist with the Detroit symphony orchestra. A host of tributes, including high praise from Karl Krueger, greeted the youthful coloratura's appearance last night on a coast-to-coast hookup. Krueger termed the young blonde singer a "real trouper."

Inter George Caskey: Funeral services for George E. Caskey, 43, of 42 York St., who died in a Harrisburg hospital last Wednesday evening, were held from the Bender Funeral Home Sunday afternoon.

Joins Studio Here: Walter B. Lane has joined the Lane Photographic Studio here. The studio at 34 York St. was opened about a year ago by Mrs. Lane, the former D. Janice Harbaugh, while Mr. Lane continued his work with Time and Life magazines. He has since resigned his post on the magazine staff to do free-lance work and to join his wife in the conduct of the studio here. Lane has been a professional photographer for 15 years and is a member of the White House National Press Service Photographers Association.

State Police Radio-Phones Are Installed: Members of the Gettysburg substation of the state police by the end of this week should be able to communicate directly by radio telephone from car-to-car and from car to the substation's quarters in the Hotel Gettysburg. The three-way frequency modulation radio installation will speed up the sending and receiving of messages by the local state police, Sgt. W. Kurt Durkoff, head of the substation, said. Police said today that they plan to use the radio telephone for emergency uses only, and will utilize teletype and telephone for ordinary messages and activities.

Administrator For Hospital Is Elected: Walter F. Doud, Harrisburg, was elected administrator of the Warner Hospital at the meeting of the Board of Directors. In electing an administrator who will be in full charge of the management of the hospital, the board took the first step in anticipation of the opening of the Musselman Memorial Annex and the rehabilitation thereafter of the original hospital building and the addition of new facilities in the immediate future to relieve overcrowding and to provide for departments to be added to the service of Adams County's hospital.

Today's Talk

DULL, DRAB DAYS
When, as sometimes happens, drab days roll by, one after another, with no sunshine break between, any one of us is apt to feel just a little gloomy, not up to our best. We crave companionship, interesting and gay.

It is at such times that the cheerful person's premium soars. For there are always those who are strong and whom discouragement and "dull, dark days" do not upset and disturb.

We can appraise the fine personality best when the clouds are heavy up in the sky. Just as we can best appreciate the friend, or associate, who is strong and unmoved when trouble comes. The fact is we often do not give enough credit to those who mean the most to us. We are apt to discount them until we find ourselves in the fog. Then we see their light and move their way.

The dull, drab days draw us all closer together. And they help us to understand human nature better and to live more bravely when the sun comes out.

From every emergency comes good. The wise mind is back-grounded with a full experience of the gifts of life—and many of these gifts have been bitter ones. But all were taken in good heart—for what each was worth.

And, after all, we gain happiness in proportion to our ability to rightly appraise the values in this life.

If we shy at trouble and try to get out of solving problems when they come to us, we are liable to experience depression and discouragement.

The dull, drab days come to us as teachers. Just bear in mind that the sun still shines right above those clouds!

In the troubled heart there may always be hidden the garden of love, sweetness of spirit, and "the red badge of courage."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Gentle Voice"

SUMMERY
The roses now are all in bloom,
The peonies have blossomed,
too,
The air is rich with sweet perfume
And there are pansies, white and blue;
Upon the fence the sweet peas climb
With petals glowing pink and red,
And once again it's summertime
And skies are gentle overhead.

The stately hedge is all in leaf,
Spiraea bloom beside the door;
King Winter's reign is very brief,
'Tis hardly started till it's o'er.
The Rose of Sharon wears the flowers
That August usually provides,
And there in cool and leafy bowers
The Lily of the Valley hides.

The snow is still upon the ground,
I haven't seen a robin yet,
But Persian lilacs I have found,
And phlox and iris I have met;
And I have seen the poppies grow
Where never weed and thistle clog;
There's never any ice or snow
Within a garden catalog.

JFK MOVES TO PROTECT U.S. CONSUMERS

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy sent Congress Thursday a jumbo-size package of proposals to protect the consumer. He expressed sympathy for America's prime buyer, the housewife.

In recommendations that would cost about $10 million a year in addition to programs already covered in budget requests, he urged steps to assure:

Safe, effective drugs for the ailing.

SAFE BEAUTY AIDS
Beauty aids that won't burn a lady's skin

TV sets that will get more channels.

Installation contracts that reveal the true rate of interest.

Wider inspection to bar unwholesome meat from dinner tables.

Legislation already is under consideration on some of these points.

BOW TO HOMEMAKERS

With a bow to the homemakers, Kennedy said "many of the new products used in the home are highly complex. The housewife is called upon to be an amateur electrician, mechanic, chemist, toxicologist, dietitian, and mathematician—but she is rarely furnished the information she needs to perform these tasks proficiently."

But Kennedy disclosed he hasn't yet solved a puzzle—how to help the housewife tell which is the best buy—the large package, the giant, the jumbo or the economy size. He said he would have recommendations later on truth in packaging.

Many of Kennedy's recommendations are in legislation already before Congress—though officials said that in some cases he went beyond the pending bills.

ANNOUNCES ORDERS

The President also announced he has ordered:

1. His Council of Economic Advisors to create a consumers' advisory council.

2. Various federal agency heads to name special assistants on consumer problems.

3. The Post Office Department to set up a pilot program by displaying, in 100 post offices, publications useful to consumers.

Orders 1 and 2 represent somewhat of a change of mind. During the 1960 campaign, Kennedy pledged to appoint a special counsel in the White House to go to bat for consumers. Aides explained that the plan he finally adopted is more in line with his style of government.

IEWS ON DRUGS

As for drugs, Kennedy said 9,000 new ones developed in the past quarter century have saved countless lives. But many don't live up to sponsors' claims, he said. So he urged, among other things, that manufacturers be required to show that a drug is effective, as well as safe, before marketing it.

Kennedy also urged steps to halt underground traffic in habit-forming barbiturates (sedatives) and amphetamines (stimulants). He said illicit sales contribute to accidents and crime.

Indicted On Charge Of Wife's Murder

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Allegheny County Grand Jury has indicted missile technician Donald D. Carroll Jr., 28, Thursday on a murder charge in the slaying of his wife Gertrude, 27.

County detectives said Carroll admitted firing two .22 caliber bullets into the back of his wife's head after an 8-hour argument at their home in suburban Moon Twp. Jan. 17. They said he told them

MATTHEW

"And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me..."

—Matthew IV

Matthew, originally called Levi, was a native of Galilee, but Scripture does not say of which city, nor of which tribe of Israel.

Although a Jew, he apparently enjoyed the confidence of the Romans, whom he served as a publican or tax collector. His job was that of collecting custom duties and fees from persons and commodities that passed over the Sea of Galilee, or along the portion of the Damascus road that skirted it.

After Jesus called him to be an apostle, Matthew, who was evidently a man of means, gave a feast at his home. In addition to Jesus, who was probably guest of honor, he invited others of the disciples as well as several publicans and friends.

His idea in giving such a banquet would appear to be twofold: to mark the end of one way of life and the beginning of a new way as a disciple of Jesus; and to give his former companions an opportunity to know something of the new Gospel that had changed his life.

Matthew's personal stature grows when seen in the perspective of his personal life and environment prior to his meeting Jesus: a man of education and wealth, the handler of money—that symbol of materialism and worldly greed—he had only to be bidden, "Follow me," and he turned his back resolutely and finally upon the past.

After the Ascension, Matthew remained in Jerusalem with the other Apostles. On the day of Pentecost, according to the Scriptural account, he received the gift of the Holy Spirit.

Christians are greatly indebted to Matthew for his version of the Gospel, in which he carefully preserved the words and parables of Jesus.

The Bible does not tell how long Matthew remained in Judea after the Ascension, but a fifth-century church historian relates that he was martyred in Ethiopia, where he had gone as a Christian missionary.

Open sandwiches are great for evening snacks. One delicious combination is made this way: arrange thin slices of roast beef on dark bread and center with a mound of chopped jellied consommé topped with horseradish. Men like this! Use fresh grated horseradish if you can; otherwise substitute the drained bottled variety.

If you wish to add walnuts to a salad and don't want the nuts to discolor the other foods, cover walnut halves with water and boil about three minutes. Drain the nuts and peel off the thin skins.

Dear Sir:
The following is in reference to news item "Court Appeal by Churches Being Dropped" in issue of March 10.

As pastor of Emmanuel and Mt. Olivet Evangelical and Reformed Churches, the last two to withdraw, I shall appreciate the privilege of a few comments.

We were sorry to withdraw our appeal because in so doing we say to all who wish to make a bequest to the church: "If something becomes confused you cannot expect the church to struggle to secure the proper execution of your will." We regret our withdrawal because we thus take from the court the opportunity to render a judgment. We were reluctant to withdraw because, after careful investigation, our attorney assured us that our case had a good chance of success.

Was it the desire of the late Charles A. Erb to bequeath to the churches the major portion of his estate or was it the desire of Mr. Erb to bequeath that major portion to his executor? This was the real issue and the question we were asking the court to answer.

To date of our withdrawal legal maneuvering had held off consideration of the real issue. In view of this we saw the possible continuance of litigation to the point where the expense would be more than we could rightfully ask our churches to bear, especially since contributions are made for

Warner Again Selected As Outstanding Player In MAC Basketball Loop

Ron Warner, sparkplug of the Gettysburg basketball team for three seasons, has been voted the outstanding player of the Middle Atlantic Conference's university division for the second year succession.

Warner, a 5-10 senior from York, was the overwhelming choice of MAC coaches for the honor after a banner season this year.

He finished third in division scoring last season and this winter came on to win the scoring title with a total of 304 points in 12 conference games for an average of 25.3 points a game. In addition, Warner finished third in field goal percentage with a percentage of .482 and fifth in free throw percentage with a percentage of .338. Warner's running mate, Bob Parker, received an honorable mention.

Warner was elected to a berth on the MAC All-University Division first team, along with Chip Lundy of Lafayette, Camp Hill; Tom Wynne of St. Joseph's, Chester; Bruce Drysdale, of Temple, Philadelphia, and Bob McAttee of LaSalle, North Arlington, N. J.

Lundy was the division's top rebounder, collecting an average of 18.6 rebounds a game. Wynne finished second in scoring with a 21-point average. McAttee ranked third in scoring with 19.1 points a game, and Drysdale finished eighth with 17.2 points a contest.

SECOND TEAM

Nate Cloud, Delaware; Dave Sysko, Delaware; Russ Gordon, Temple; Bob Kaufman, Lafayette; Frank Corace, LaSalle.

HONORABLE MENTION

Joe Steiner, Bucknell; Earl Proctor, Temple; Al Ammerman, Rutgers; Bob Parker, Gettysburg; Walt Sampson, LaSalle; Norm Brandt, Lehigh; Jim Lynam, St. Joseph's.

Simons To Seek Tourney Repeat

WINONA, Minn. (AP)—Dynamite comes in small packages at the NAIA Wrestling Tournament today and Saturday with olympics grappler Gray Simons of Lock Haven State, Pa., back to defend his 115-pound title.

A senior, Simons has won all his matches since his freshman year. He has played a key role in Lock Haven's 74-0 dual meet victory string. He finished fifth in the Olympics at Rome in 1960.

The Bald Eagles are defending champions in the tournament being held at Winona State College. Forty-eight schools of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics have entered 209 wrestlers.

In addition to Simons, four champions will defend their titles, including Charles Walizer, Lock Haven, 130 pound class; Gene Dixon, Bloomsburg State, Pa., 157; Bill Garson, Bloomsburg, 191, and Jerry Wedemeier, Winona, unlimited class.

Lock Haven clamped onto the tournament crown last year with only five entries. The team's coach, Hubert Jack, was voted the NAIA's coach of the year in wrestling last year and Thursday night received his award at a dinner sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

GULFSTREAM HANDICAP TO PROVE BATTLE

By GENE PLOWDEN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Saturday's $100,000 Gulfstream Park Handicap, last big race of the winter for the nation's leading older horses, already has developed into a battle of wits among some of the country's leading trainers and jockeys.

Naturally, the seven or eight horses going in the mile and a quarter feature will have vital roles. Strategy, perhaps more than sheer speed, will determine the winner of about $75,000 first money.

There will be the California star, Four-and-Twenty, handled by the veteran Johnny Longden in the race and trained by his son, Vance. Four-and-Twenty won three stakes in California this winter and is the best from the West at this time.

OTHER HOUSES

Then there is Calumet Farm and its cagey trainer, H. A. (Jimmy) Jones, who will saddle Yorky with the veteran Steve Brooks up.

Yorky recently won the Widener at Hialeah and is a 2-1 favorite in the Gulfstream Park feature.

The question of Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back is the most intriguing of all. Carry Back has started four times this winter, with three seconds and a third.

Lock Haven clamped onto the tournament crown last year with only five entries. The team's coach, Hubert Jack, was voted the NAIA's coach of the year in wrestling last year and Thursday night received his award at a dinner sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It will be the first big interdistrict test for the Thundering Herd, hot on the trail of its first Class A crown in history.

The Herd sewed up its Dist. 3 honors just last Tuesday with a 48-45 triumph over York.

Norristown, winner of the coveted A title in 1948, was this year's Dist. 1 champ.

The winner of tonight's battle will meet the winner of Saturday night's Naticoke-Catawba contest at the State Farm Show Building Wednesday night for the eastern regional championship.

Two Class C games took up all the action Thursday night's play-off activity.

Fairview defeated Wallenpaupack 54-44 at Wilkes-Barre and Jim Thorpe, a leading contender for Class C honors, downed Sharon Hill 61-58 at Reading in eastern semifinals.

A jump shot by Jack Morgan with 16 seconds left and two foul conversions by Don Deemer provided Jim Thorpe with its margin of victory.

Bill Sauerwine was the big gun in Fairview's victory, dumping in 21 points—13 in the second half.

Fairview and Jim Thorpe will meet in the eastern C finals Monday night at Bethlehem.

U.S. WOMAN TO SEEK ICE TITLE

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Roles Pursley, 20-year-old mother from Arcadia, Calif., carrying U.S. hopes for its first title at the World Figure Skating Championships, was in a strong position today for her attempt to annex the women's crown.

Making a comeback to bolster the U.S. team that lost its top skaters in a plane crash at Brussels 13 months ago, Mrs. Pursley was in fourth place going into today's final school figures and close enough to overtake leading Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands in Saturday's free skating.

Price has kept charts and notes on all Carry Back's races and Yearza has spent hours digesting them.

WESTMINSTER EYING NAIA CHAMPIONSHIP

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Westminster of Pennsylvania, three times in the semi-finals of the National Intercollegiate (NAIA) Basketball Tournament in the last three years, means to go all the way this time.

"We're here for the week," Coach Buzz Ridd told his team Thursday night after the top-seeded Titans swept past Orange State (Calif.) 63-55 in the quarterfinals.

Also with intentions of staying the full week are Prairie View (Tex.) A&M, Western Illinois and Southeastern (Okla.) State, tonight's other semifinalists.

LOOKING FOR TITLE

Actually, all the teams will be around for the wind-up Saturday because tonight's losers meet in a preliminary to the championship.

But no one misunderstood Ridd's remark. He's looking for the title. Westminster made it to the finals in 1960 but lost. Last year the school was bounced out in the semifinals by Grambling, the team that won the championship.

Ridd can field a fancy starting lineup against Southeastern State tonight to back up his promise.

Ron Galbreath, a small college All America, has scored 51 points in three tournament games, 14 coming Thursday night against Orange State.

USED SIX MEN

Lou Skurcinski, whose 6-6 frame helps him get most of the rebounds, scored 18 points against the Dolphins team.

The Douns took 9 respectively. But the Douns took a severe roughing up Thursday night and Bob, after hitting the floor several times, underwent post-game treatment for injured ribs.

Loss of either of the Douns, 22-year-old, 6-foot look-alikes from Transfer, Pa., could hurt Westminster.

The Titans played only six men Thursday night and there's a question whether reserves could carry the load for any of the other starting five, rounded out by Warren Salda.

WILT SETS 9 NBA RECORDS

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Association officially recognized Wilt Chamberlain's record point production of 4,029 today and credited the most prolific scorer in league history with eight other marks.

Winning the individual scoring title for the third straight year, the 7-foot-1 star of Philadelphia became the first man in NBA records to enter the 4,000-point circle, set a record for scoring average with a 30.4 points a game and established these other standards:

Most field goals attempted (3,159); most field goals made (1,597); most free throws attempted (1,363); most free throws made (635); most minutes played (3,882); most games scoring 50 points (44); and most field goals missed in one season (528).

Two other league records were established. Wilt Bellamy, rookie with the Chicago Packers who wound up second in the scoring race with 2,495 points and a 31.6 average, eclipsed Chamberlain's field goal percentage standard by hitting on 513 of his shots.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson was third in scoring with 2,432 points and a 30.8 average.

AWAIT WORD ON PLAYOFFS

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Officials of Uniontown St. John's were awaiting word today on whether the school is the Class B Western Division Champion of the Pennsylvania Catholic Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

It was not known if the St. John's would have to play St. Michael's of Greenville tonight at Greenville for the western title or would automatically meet Bethlehem Catholic, eastern Regional champion, next week for the state crown.

The current muddle began Wednesday night when St. Anselm of the Pittsburgh Diocese was disqualified from the playoffs because the school's enrollment exceeds the Class B limit of 200.

St. Anselm was to play St. John's Wednesday night for the western title.

The superintendent of the Pittsburgh Diocese schools, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John B. McDowell said Thursday there would be no further playoffs in the diocese to replace St. Anselm in the tournament.

St. Anselm had eliminated St. Michael's from the playoffs. But it was not known if St. Anselm's disqualification would put St. Michael's back into the picture.

Win Bowling Tournament

Members of Hagerman's bowling team, Hampton, above, were presented awards Wednesday evening at the Hagerman Alleys for having won the York County Bowlerama tourney in January. Presentation of awards was made by Mrs. Marie Horner, secretary of the York County Bowling Association.

Hagerman's turned in a team score of 2,624 in the handicap affair. Left to right, with individual scores, are: Jean Nace, 478; Rosalie Hoffman, 523; Mary Rinker, 574; Eva Cooley, 532; and Audrey Moul, 517. Each received a pin and trophy while the team trophy was presented to Carroll Hagerman, team sponsor. In addition to first prize money of $50, the team won $15 for highest total pins in one game.

YANKEES WIN 6TH STRAIGHT ON HR POWER

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees have stretched their winning streak to four over Cincinnati by beating the National League pennant-winners in their first meeting since the 1961 World Series.

Mickey Mantle provided an early lead with a three-run homer in the first inning as the Yanks boosted their unbeaten streak to six games Thursday with an 8-3 victory over the inept Reds at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

It was the world champion Yankees' first victory over National League competition and maintained the only unblemished record in the exhibition standings while pushing the Reds into sole possession of 10th place among senior circuit clubs with a 1-5 mark.

HAD NINE HITS

The Yanks collected nine hits. Bud Daley, Rollie Sheldon and former Red Marshall Bridges checked Cincinnati on six hits.

The Chicago White Sox remained right behind the Yanks in the AL standings, winning their third straight for a 5-1 record by whipping the Detroit Tigers 4-3 in 10 innings at Sarasota, Fla.

In other games, Boston edged San Francisco 7-6 in 11 innings at Phoenix, Washington walloped the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4 at Pompano Beach, Kansas City whipped Minnesota 7-3 at West Palm Beach, Chicago's Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Angels 7-3 at Xena and Houston beat Cleveland 4-2 at Apache Junction.

The New York Mets-Pittsburgh and Philadelphia-Milwaukee tilts were canceled due to rain. Baltimore and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Villanova an at-large selection, knocked off Southern Conference winner West Virginia 90-75 in the opening

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Kennedy decided to resume atmospheric nuclear tests—a move of sensational magnitude and interest—he announced it in a TV-radio broadcast and not in a news conference.

This, if only by contrast, gives an insight into the nature of his meetings with the press where, while providing a lot of news, he avoids sensationalism.

There were good reasons for the way he announced the tests. It got him maximum attention. But it was also a decision which needed full and detailed explanation, carefully prepared and stated.

30-MINUTE TALK
It was in a field too dangerous and slippery to be skipped over casually or quickly, as might happen at a news conference, since a careless phrase could cause an explosion. And there was the time element.

Kennedy took almost 30 minutes in his broadcast. His news conferences last 30 minutes. If he had tried to use his news conference for the statement he gave on TV there would have been no time for a conference.

An examination of his eight meetings with the press in 1962 shows a pattern which has been consistent in his news conferences with very few exceptions, since he took office in 1961.

PATTERN OF RESTRAINT
If it is granted that a cardinal mark of maturity in a man with great power is the steady exercise of restraint and the ability to look beyond the immediate hazardous or angry moment, then Kennedy is very mature.

Restraint is the one word which can sum up the pattern of his news conferences.

This is the pattern:
Very little display of anger, particularly of a personal kind; an extraordinarily detailed knowledge of government, foreign and domestic; streaks of humor; avoidance of language which would humiliate or needlessly irritate and antagonize individuals who disagree with him but with whom he must continue to deal, whether it's Premier Khrushchev or members of Congress working to scuttle his programs.

AVOIDS NEEDLES
Sometimes he seems more relaxed than others in the way he catches and answers questions. The questions themselves may have something to do with it. For instance, he refuses to accept those which are based on assumptions or occasionally those which look like deliberate needles.

At any rate the less relaxed mood shows up, as it did Wednesday when he had to backtrack on a question to be sure he heard it right and then gives disjointed and even garbled answers.

(President Eisenhower, except when visibly angered, was always harder to peg as more or less relaxed because he had a sentence-scrambling habit.)

VARY IN QUALITY
But the conferences themselves vary in tone and quality. There are days that have an almost merry bang-bang-bang air. Some are fast, serious, and packed with news. Others are just dull.

Here again some little differences in Kennedy's mood may be a factor. A far bigger factor probably is the kind of questions asked some of them hum-drum, and some which sound just plain stupid.

One of the truly fascinating aspects of Kennedy's conferences—not at all obvious because the fascination lies far more in what he doesn't say than in what he says—is his handling of Khrushchev.

Kennedy acts as if he knows or assumes Khrushchev has plenty of unpublishable troubles with some of the top Communist leadership on his ideas and policies.

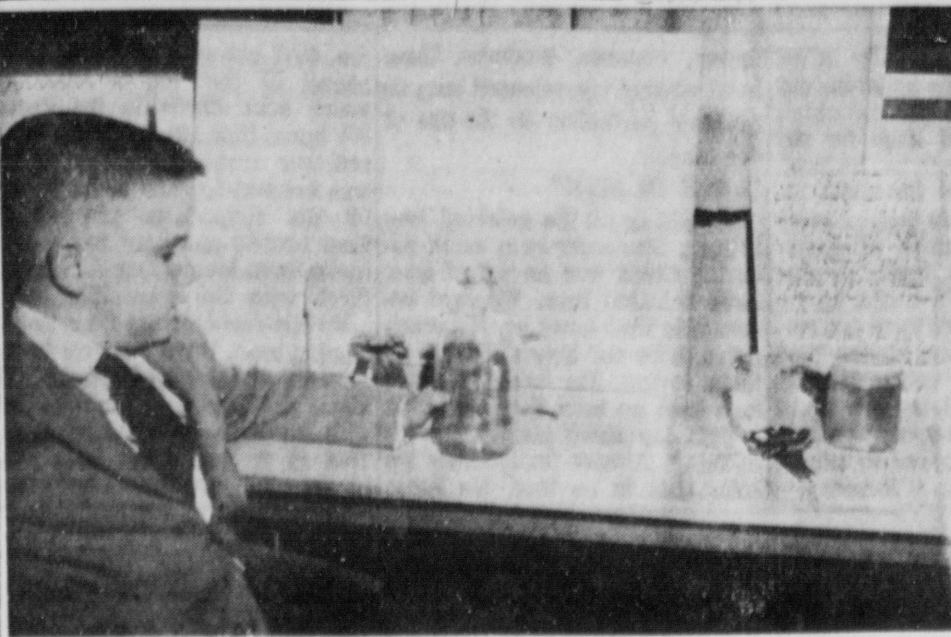

The President from the beginning, while dealing firmly with the Russians, has refrained from saying anything that would personally embarrass or push him, out of anger or self-defense, into a position he would not otherwise have felt himself forced into.

Khrushchev has done pretty much the same with Kennedy. It's as if the two leaders, without actually telling each other so, are saying: So long as we leave the door open a bit we can still do business.

SOCIETY MEETS
The Alta Hummer Society of the United Lutheran Church Women of St. John's Church met following the Lenten service on Wednesday evening at the church. Mrs. George Trump, leader for the evening, introduced the topic "Every Inch A Christian" and a group discussion followed. Mrs. Trump gave a reading entitled "Keeping Lent" and offered prayer. The missionary benediction was repeated in unison.

Mrs. Robert V. Weaver, president, conducted the brief business session. Mrs. Lloyd L. Stavelly, secretary, and Mrs. Trump, treasurer, gave their reports. It was decided that the meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 4, 8:30 p.m., after the Lenten service. Refreshments were then served by Mrs. Harry W. Badders and Miss Evelyn Asper.

Resurrection Of Jesus Made A Holier And Happier Life

During this season of the year when we are confronted anew with the Cross of Jesus Christ and by the fact and existence of Christ Himself we are led to think of the many wonderful blessings which are ours through Him.

By His life Jesus released ideals in men. We do this ourselves sometimes. We act more nobly because we desire nobility in the lives of others, our children, our friends. We do it for someone's sake. So the Lord lived for our sakes. He believed in us. He sanctified Himself that we might become sanctified. He pushed every good trait of human character out to its utmost limit, so that the desire and will might be released in us to push them out ourselves. He is always saying "follow me." By His unbounded forgiveness the ideal is born in us to become forgiving. By His generosity we are inspired to exhibit the same virtue. So it is with joy, mercy, courage, kindness, these ideal virtues are released into us by their perfection in the life of our Master.

"LOVE IN MEN"
By His death He released love in men. Surrender unto death upon the Cross was an act of love. Love releases love. We love because He first loved us. His crucifixion grips our hearts and makes them loving. He said, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Almost instinctively we know that to be true. We know, too, that our own sin is part and parcel of that sin of humanity which sent Christ to the Cross. We know that He took upon Himself our transgressions, that He was bruised for our iniquity, that by His stripes we are healed. That breaks our hard hearts and makes them loving. Our cold hearts throb with the warmth of love.

By His resurrection He released hope in men. Have you ever heard someone speak who had very high ideals and great possibilities but with no hope of realizing them. This is a person to be pitied. Ideals and love just must have eternity. These demand more life than can be lived in three score years and ten. Without hope all seems to be futile and fatal.

It is not merely because we wish for eternal life that we have hope. Wishful thinking is not enough. It is Jesus' resurrection which is our great pledge and token of eternal life. The presence of the Risen Christ gives us assurance. Infinite possibilities lie ahead. We live in the power of the resurrection which extends life unto immortality, broadens life for activity and for love, deepens life to be filled with the fullness of God. The power of the resurrection makes life happier, holier and more hopeful.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed a bill eliminating the mandatory death sentence for first degree murder in the District of Columbia.

It will let juries decide between death and life imprisonment as the first degree murder penalty. The measure was approved Wednesday and sent to the House which is expected to approve Senate amendments to a bill it passed last year.

You see a giant ship at dockside and suddenly, you yearn to board her and journey to far-off, exotic ports.

Why? For the sake of excitement — adventure — or because, like most people, you feel the need to escape, at times, even from yourself?

This desire to escape is human. But it is also impossible. No matter where you go, the self you'd like to fling away, travels with you.

Sail the seven seas, if you can. But first find personal peace. Go to church. God shows you, through His Church, the only way that you, and that self of yours, truly can travel together.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SEC TO START QUIZ OF ALL STOCK FIRMS

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission announced today it is quizzing all of the nation's 5,750 brokerage firms about dealings in 200 stocks.

The mammoth inquiry—part of a larger study of the entire securities industry—will yield the first detailed picture of exactly what goes on in the over-the-counter market. It is in this loosely organized market that brokers and investors trade in securities outside the regular stock exchanges.

Milton H. Cohen, director of the SEC's industry study, said a special questionnaire is being mailed to all brokerage houses "to obtain general information about the growth and size of the over-the-counter market and specific data as to transactions in that market." The completed questionnaires must be returned by April 9.

MANY ANSWERS

The SEC hopes, through an analysis of the questionnaires, to find out how many shares and how much money change hands in the market and how many brokers participate.

It also wants to know if it takes a large volume of trading to produce noteworthy price changes, and if brokers are overcharging customers on over-the-counter trades.

These trades are negotiated between the buyer and the seller—usually with brokers acting as their agents. In many cases, brokers help to make the market by buying and selling securities for their own account.

The questionnaires note that it is a criminal offense to submit false information to a federal government agency.

OTHER QUESTIONS

They go on to ask for a list of every over-the-counter trade in 115 active stocks on a single day—last Jan. 18. Brokers must disclose prices, commissions and markups. They need not identify individual customers involved.

The 115 stocks include many prominent issues, among them American Airlines, Anheuser-Busch, Bank of America, General Telephone & Electronics, Hartford Fire Insurance, Lockheed Aircraft, Pacific Power & Light, Pocket Books, Royal Dutch Petroleum and Wisconsin Power & Light.

The SEC said stocks were chosen "on a random sampling basis and their selection in no way implies any question about the particular securities" or trading in them.

Family Food Facts

THOMAS E. PIPER
Area Marketing Agent

Good food buys are just about as tough to predict as the weather during the month of March. Changing seasonal weather patterns, depletion of storage stocks of certain commodities and the observance of Lent are important factors influencing availability of foods and the retailers promotional decisions. Foodshoppers would do well to study food ads in local newspapers before doing the shopping this weekend, reminds Tom Piper, Penn State extension marketing agent.

Beef steaks, pork roasts, center-cut pork chops and frozen turkeys are meat items due to appear on the list of value priced items at many markets. Observance of "Fish and Sea Food Time" is now underway. Watch for promotionally priced sea food items as frozen fillets of cod, flounder, haddock and ocean perch are reported in heavy supply.

Eggs are in plentiful supply at prices below a year ago. Large size eggs offer best value on a weight basis. A large number of types and forms of cheese is available to add variety to meatless meals. Protein-wise, nutritionists say you can substitute Cheddar or process cheese ounce-for-ounce for most lean meats. Both eggs and cheese provide an economical source of protein.

EFFECTS OF WEATHER

Adverse weather conditions in the west last week are responsible for the light supplies of some fresh vegetables. This situation has caused marked increases in the price for celery and cabbage. Lettuce quality is reported to be fair to poor as a result of recent freezes in important growing areas. Brussels sprouts, peppers, cucumbers, eggplant and broccoli are in light supply and prices are holding firm.

Potatoes are still the outstanding buy in fresh vegetables. Green beans, endive, escarole, spinach, radishes, leafy greens and green onions are reasonably priced.

Grapefruit, oranges and apples continue to dominate the buyers choice of fresh fruits. Red and Golden Delicious, Stayman and Rome apples continue to move well at unchanged prices. Grapefruit quality is now at its peak and lower prices are noted on heavier shipments of Valencia oranges. Avocados are approaching the peak supply situation and it will provide "something different" for dessert. Banana prices are currently high due to light supplies.

Indiana State Gets New Baseball Coach

INDIANA, Pa. (AP)—Owen J. Dougherty was named Thursday head baseball coach at Indiana State College starting with the 1963 season.

The college said Dougherty will replace Sam Smith, who will retire as baseball coach after this season to devote full time to his athletic director duties.

Dougherty was a football and baseball standout at Penn State University as an undergraduate. He came to Indiana State in 1956 after two years as a teacher and coach at Dunmore High School.

The college said Dougherty will continue as an instructor in the physical education department.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Outfielder John Callison is having hitting troubles in spring training with the Philadelphia Phillies but he intends to do something about it.

"Just wait," said Callison. "I'll show 'em I can play baseball." Callison struck out with the bases loaded and hit into a double play Wednesday as the Phillies suffered their third straight exhibition defeat, this one to Pittsburgh 8-3.

The Phillies' pitchers, too, are having difficulty. In the last three games they have given up 31 hits and 21 walks.

It's a good idea to refrigerate rich pie dough before rolling out, but don't over-chill or the dough will be hard to roll and the edges "A good cook we know always has a little suet added to the lean beef that is ground for hamburgers; the fat is ground right along with the meat."

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

The faith of an uneducated youth led St. Patrick from slavery to sainthood. Captured in a pirate raid on Britain at the age of 16, he was taken to Ireland. "Every day I had to tend sheep," he wrote, "and many times a day I prayed—the love of God and His fear came to me more and more, and my faith was strengthened." Escaping to Gaul six years later, he dreamed of bringing the love of Christ to his captors. He studied for the priesthood, was consecrated Bishop, and returned to Ireland. There he converted the country to Christianity, improving the lot of slaves, uniting ethics with law, denouncing hatred and bloodshed, and giving "Him thanks who hath strengthened me in everything."

120 Persons Begin Tests For Human Cancer Vaccine

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A hopeful new search for a vaccine to protect humans against cancer has begun.

Thursday 120 persons between the ages of 60 and 70 in Sweden form the first test group, but if all goes well perhaps 12,000 persons may receive experimental vaccine before 1965.

So reported Dr. Bertil Bjorklund of the Immunological Research Laboratory in Stockholm to newsmen after the closing session of the American Cancer Society's science writers seminar.

The vaccine consists mainly of bits of killed cancer cells, actually human cells that have become abnormal.

INACTIVATE GERMS

In the healthy body these cell fragments will stimulate production of protective antibodies—the substances that tend to inactivate germs and viruses.

get a look at America's First Lady.

It was one of the biggest turnouts for the U.S. president's wife since she began her nine-day visit to India on Monday.

The crowd was so dense at one point that it surged into the street, pushing down the motorcade. Police pushed the spectators back.

PACK NEAR CENTER

Police estimated 4,000 to 5,000 persons were packed in front of the child cooperative center. Shouts of "Mrs. Kennedy zinda bad"—long live Mrs. Kennedy—rang out as her limousine drove up.

Mrs. Kennedy wore a sleeveless yellow linen dress ideal for the fresh, springlike morning, bone-colored shoes and white gloves, a three-strand pearl necklace and a diamond and emerald clip on her dress.

Youth center boys in khaki formed an honor guard at the entrance to the home. Pictures of the American First Lady clipped from magazines, adorned the walls of the boys' dormitory and a recreation room which she visited. She also looked into workshop where the boys are taught trades.

PRESENTS PROJECTOR

Mrs. Kennedy presented the boys with a 16-millimeter sound movie projector complete with screen and film including a documentary called "Pilgrimage to Liberty."

The boys gave her a teak tray and several small cane flower baskets they had made. After the exchange of gifts the boys performed calisthenics for the visitors.

The boys, between 12 and 18 years old, are voluntary participants in the center—a social workers' alternative to letting delinquents be sent to police institutions. Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter and Mrs. Kennedy's hostess, is president of the organization.

If your friends like steak tartare (raw ground beef with egg yolk and seasonings) you can use it as a stuffing for cooked artichoke leaves and they'll gobble it up. But don't overload the leaves—just a dab of the mixture at the base will do the trick.

SCHOOLROOM IS GIVEN INDIA BY FIRST LADY

By EUGENE LEVIN
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Art-loving Jacqueline Kennedy presented a portable American schoolroom equipped with art materials to the children of India Wednesday.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, Prime Minister Nehru's daughter and Mrs. Kennedy's hostess, accepted the octagonal-shaped prefabricated schoolroom.

The room, known as the "Children's Carnival of Art," is one of the latest developments in American art education. Teachers can watch children's reactions from outside the room without being observed by the tots. The idea is to keep the child's creative impulse from being inhibited by the presence of adults.

On behalf of Indian schoolchildren, Mrs. Gandhi gave Mrs. Kennedy five dolls dressed in Indian regional costumes and 12 water color paintings which won the New Delhi schoolchildren's art contest last week.

A group of Indian artists, sculptors, musicians and theatrical people invited to Nehru's residence for the presentation watched Mrs. Kennedy feed bananas and milk from a bottle to a flower-decked 600-pound baby elephant.

Earlier, thousands of Indians paused on their way to work to applaud Mrs. Kennedy as she visited a boys' rehabilitation home in New Delhi's business section.

Office workers in short-sleeved shirts and labors in diaper-wrapped dhotis stood by their bicycles or climbed out of buses to

ARCHITECTS ASK SENIORS ABOUT SCHOOL

Twenty-four Seniors were elected at class meeting for the Bermudian Springs High School yearbook's "Who's Who." Categories include "most likely to succeed," "book worms," "most talented," "tallest," "shortest," "shyest," "best dressed," and "best dancers."

Three architects visited the school on March 9 to ask student opinion on the new building. They were present at one of the Seniors' classes and received a list of comments collected by Student Council President Tom Hardy and Senior Class President Sandy Weigle.

The Bermudian Springs Junior High basketball team, coached by Gary Crum and Donald Morrison, had a winning season this year, winning season this year, winning five games and losing only three. The outstanding player and high scorer of the team was Eighth Grader Barry Boyer, who scored 93 points for an average of 13.3 points per game. John Hardy, a Seventh Grader was the player who backed Boyer in the scoring column, with 53 points for an average of 6.6 points per game. With this young talent the Junior High looks for a very good record next year.

A hypnotist, D. K. Ernst, presented an assembly program on Tuesday. Out of the many volunteers, those who were hypnotized were Barbara Bolger, Connie Ross, Pat Green, Cindy Harris, Darlene Wonders, Mary Eshleman, Penny Uffelman, Larry Eisenhart and Robert Rohrbaugh.

Thirteen students at the Bermudian Springs High School took the 1962 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, John A. Rebert, counselor, has announced.

The test was administered at the school at 9 a.m. Saturday. All students who wanted to be considered for merit scholarships to be awarded in 1963 had to take the test at that time.

The qualifying test was a three-hour examination of educational development. The test was the first step in the eighth annual competition for four-year merit scholarships provided by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and by sponsoring corporations, foundations, associations, unions, and individuals.

ORRTANNA — The monthly meeting of the WSWs of the Mt. Carmel EUB Church was held Monday evening in the church hall with 11 members and one guest present.

The president, Mrs. Dale Wetzel, presided and opened the meeting with prayer. A short business meeting followed when officers were elected for the coming year. Reports of officers were given and approved. Mrs. Wendell Wetzel was the leader for the worship program on "United We Serve." Mrs. Wetzel prefaced the meeting with prayer. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Claire Rebert. After the hymn, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," Mrs. Clyde Metz spoke on the Dominican Republic; Mrs. Paul Wetzel, Puerto Rico; Mrs. Robert Shindedecker, Ecuador, and Mrs. Dale Wetzel told of Brazil. The group endeavored to learn the Brazilian missionary hymn, "Thanks To God." The closing prayer was offered by the pastor, the Rev. Alfred Gotwalt. Refreshments and a social hour followed with Mrs. Claire Rebert as hostess assisted by Mrs. George Haines.

Because of the postponement of the meeting of the study class of the society due to inclement weather on February 5, it will be held on March 20 at the home of Mrs. Paul Wetzel with Mrs. Robert Shindedecker, leader.

A daughter, Colean Kay, was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCrone, New Castle, Del. This is their fourth child, all daughters. Mrs. McCrone is the former Mae Spence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spence.

awarded in any year depends upon the extent of sponsor participation. In 1961, 945 merit scholarships were awarded. The test scores of students who were examined on Saturday will be reported to their schools by May 15. The scores are used by class advisors in many high schools to help students make decisions about college attendance and field of study. Many students who do not expect to win a scholarship take the test in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses in the areas measured by the test.

Some 10,000 semifinalists, the highest scorers in each state, will be named early next fall. Names of semifinalists are published in a booklet which is distributed to all colleges and to other sources of financial aid for undergraduates.

Let's Look At The Record

JUNIOR COLLEGE TRENDS
Some Private JC's Are In Trouble
But Field Offers Good Teaching Jobs

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.
President, Wisconsin State College, Superior

THE JUNIOR COLLEGES are having trouble. There are nearly 600 in the United States. Some are old and are comparatively large boarding schools, Stephens College for Women in Missouri, founded in 1833, enrolls 1,500 quite attractive students.

But most of the older junior colleges are small (less than 300) and local in patronage. The larger and more spectacular in the present growth of the junior college movement are municipal (often with tuition arrangements with adjoining counties) and were founded within the past 25 or 30 years.

NO GENERAL statement can be made with reference to the success or failure of these burgeoning, municipal junior colleges. In Texas, where distances make the need for decentralization of opportunity apparent, the tax supported junior colleges are neither too large nor too small. They are generally considered excellent.

In Iowa, where almost every small city and oversize village with a few vacant classrooms or organized a junior college, they are often considered little less than a fraud on the students.

In highly urbanized areas like Los Angeles, the junior colleges have enormous enrollments, with haphazard congestion and patchwork curriculums. A diploma from one of them may or may not mean anything.

In short, some junior colleges are trying to do too much with too little. Others have too little to do much.

THE PROBLEMS of the private junior colleges are often monetary. The older, private junior colleges often have little or no endowment. To attract an endowment and justify high tuition and campus living costs, the private, junior college must, like Stephens, offer an outstanding, often expensive, and unique program.

The late Dr. J. M. Wood, of Stephens, used to boast that over 90 per cent of his girls were married within two years of graduation. His waggish but envious competitors began asking him what kind of a spouse trap was he running. The boast changed but the college policies continued. He was a brilliant and wise educator.

THE BIG PROBLEM for all junior colleges is the teacher shortage. They are caught between the high schools and the higher degree, granting colleges and universities. But this may soon improve.

When a scholarly minded high school teacher contemplates a change for further professional advancement, he instinctively looks toward the university level colleges offering baccalaureate degrees.

If he has a master's degree in his academic field, is reasonably articulate, has some remote promise of a doctorate, and no menacing cloud on his record, he experiences little or no difficulty in getting a probationary appointment in a college or university as instructor with future permanence contingent upon the "up-grading of his credentials."

But this is often a tough choice for the ambitious teacher. If he is married, has a growing family, and approaching 40, he may well ask if the future increase in earning power is worth the cost.

THIS SITUATION, within the next few years, may work materially to the advantage of the junior colleges. At present, between the faculty recruitment policies of the secondary schools and the university level colleges, the two-year institutions are being overlooked and bypassed.

But a trend is detectable that is favorable to those junior colleges that have budgets somewhat close to their responsibilities. It stems from the fact that the junior colleges are not under the hammer for such high level credentials for their faculty members as are the four-year colleges.

RECENT statistics reveal that less than 7 per cent of the faculties of the junior colleges in the United States have doctorate degrees. The ratio has been diminishing as a result of senior colleges and universities raiding their faculties for teachers with such qualifications.

Likewise, the ratio of junior college faculties with a year of graduate work beyond the master's has been declining even more rapidly — from 22 per cent to 17 per cent since 1958. Once again, college teachers in this category have a high promise of doctoral credentials. Raiding of junior college faculties in this bracket has been heavy.

The foregoing has forced junior colleges to depend primarily upon good teachers with a master's degree. They now constitute 29 per cent of America's J. C. faculties. Ambitious young people with more than a bachelor's and less than a master's make up the remaining 49 per cent.

Salaries in the junior colleges are good, considering the absence of pressure for higher degrees, publication and research. Emphasis is on good teaching. They are better than average for comparable experience at the high school level and range up to associate professor in the colleges and universities. Recently, the better junior colleges have been successfully raiding the instructor and assistant professor ranks of the senior colleges for exceptionally good, nondoctoral teachers. This trend seems likely to continue.

BULLWINKLE DRAWS MANY CRITICISMS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—It is likely that a brash and off-beat cartoon program, "The Bullwinkle Show," will be leaving NBC next season.

And that will be good news to the network's department of continuity and acceptance (that's television-ese for "censorship").

It has had nothing but trouble with the irreverent creators of the show, Jay Ward and Bill Scott, who take delight in treading on sensitive toes.

The show started poking fun at "Disneyland, calling it "Dizzy Walter's Land." Early in the season, attorneys for Durward Kirby of the Garry Moore Show, formally notified them to stop using the name "Kurwood Derby" for a magic hat. They invented a pyromaniac bear, Stokely, who got quick angry action from the U.S. Forest Service, pointing out that Smokey Bear was a treasured, copyrighted property of the service and not to be kidded.

RED IS ANGRY

Red Skelton registered annoyance with Bullwinkle's voice (a moose) claiming it sounded like Red's Clem Caddillehopper character (and it does).

But worst was a sequence that slipped by the censors in which they cooked, for Thanksgiving dinner, a peacock. A peacock is NBC's symbol of color shows.

"We got complaints," said Ward. "So we offered to apologize on another show. But they said that it was forbidden. It's sacred."

The show may be a headache to NBC, but its sponsor loves it. And because the sponsor has a lot of money to spend for other shows, it won't have any trouble finding a new home for "Bullwinkle" next season.

MYSTERIES FOR PERRY

Perry Como's summer replacement plans are not yet final, but probably will be a batch of mystery shows—new ones, stitched up by Desilu—which will look great in the desert of repeats. . . . Even though Chick Hennessey is a doctor, it looks pretty definite now that the Jackie Cooper series is finished the end of this season. There will be a confusing time soon when actor Gale Gordon is both "Pete and Gladys" uncle and the next-door neighbor of "Dennis the Menace."

Bruins Stun Hopes Of Detroit, 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Bruins, National Hockey League have-nots who appeared to be on their way to a record in reverse, suddenly have started throwing their weight around in the Stanley Cup playoff picture.

The last-place Bruins, who hadn't won since Jan. 27, stunned Detroit 4-0 Thursday night and all but ruined the Red Wings' hopes for a playoff spot.

It left the Wings two points back of fourth-place New York in the struggle for the last playoff berth. Each team has four more games to play.

Montreal, shooting for its fifth straight regular season title, all but clinched it with a 6-5 triumph over Chicago in the only other game. The Canadiens lead second-place Toronto by seven points and need a combination of two victories or two Toronto losses for the title.

MUSICAL SHOW "NO STRINGS" FRESH, NOVEL

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—"No Strings," the new Richard Rodgers musical, manages to be both bright and trite.

All the trimmings are fresh, novel and attractive in the production which premiered Thursday night at the 54th Street Theater. The flaw in an otherwise boldly experimental enterprise is a wishy-washy story.

To consider the pleasures first, there is a set of tunes that shimmer with romance and cut loose with robust verve. In his 37th Broadway sortie, veteran composer Rodgers also doubles, for the first time, as lyricist. The results are proficient rather than up to the superior standards of either of his late partners, Lorenz Hart and Oscar Hammerstein II.

Another asset is the fluid, impromptu staging worked out by director Joe Layton. He also gives the leggy, lusty chorines some tingling dance routines.

As further innovation, the settings by David Hays are casually flexible rather than rigidly realistic.

MIXTURE FROM BOOK

Now, alas, we come to the activities, centering upon stars Richard Kiley and Diahann Carroll. He portrays a writer who has been bumming around Europe ever since an early win of the Pulitzer prize. Miss Carroll turns up as a refugee from New York's Harlem who has become the top fashion model of Paris. Romance blooms.

The book, provided by Samuel Taylor, is a mixture of old-fashioned boy-meets-loses-wins-girl and oblique approach to that racial integration. Although Rodgers previously has declared that the love story involving a white youth and Negro girl is without special meaning, the circumstance is an inescapable factor for both audience and author.

NOT TOO COMICAL

But at the end of the evening, the yarn shies off with a bland reference to how difficulties back in the States might make it difficult for the couple to settle down. There is a vague promise that later on they'll get together again in their European sanctuary.

The comedy level is less than hilarious.

Noelle Adam appears as a distracting photographer's assistant, and Bernice Massi spices the continental joy-spre background with some hip-tossing choruses. Other able participants are Polly Rowles, Don Chastain, Mitchell Gregg and Alvin Epstein.

The Rodgers songs you are liable to be hearing include "The Sweetest Sounds," "Loads of Love," "Nobody Told Me" and "Look No Further."

"No Strings" is, despite all its lively vigor, a show that never goes anywhere.

YORK PRINTER ARRESTED ON DUCAT CHARGE

YORK, Pa. (AP)—A 35-year-old York printer was arrested Thursday night on charges of gorging and circulating phony tickets for the PIAA Class A Dist. 3 basketball playoff at Hershey Tuesday night.

York County Dist. Atty. Daniel Shoemaker said the printer, Carl Eugene Bowser, has admitted making up 25 of the bogus tickets. However, he denies selling any.

The arrest was the first breakthrough in an extensive investigation by state and local police that has spread through Dauphin, Lancaster and York Counties.

"But the investigation is far from over," Shoemaker explained. The big question now, he said, is to determine just how many counterfeit tickets were made and sold.

40 DUDS

The estimates on the number of tickets range from seven to 40. Shoemaker said Hershey officials reported seven bogus tickets were collected at the game and Bowser admitted he made 25. Officials of the PIAA claim they can produce at least 40 duds.

Shoemaker quoted Bowser as saying he printed the tickets Monday night at the establishment where he works, then gave them to others.

"I did not sell any of them," he stated.

Bowser waived a hearing before Alderman Chester Thomas and was released on $500 bond, pending further action.

Clergyman Has New Twist To New Uses Of Usable Items

PERU, Ill. (AP)—A minister in this Northern Illinois town has given a new twist to the old-fashioned rummage sale and hopes his variation will grow into a nationwide effort to help foreign missionaries.

The Rev. Ralph Burlingham, pastor of the Peru Congregational Church, suggests churches and individuals collect discarded but usable medical equipment—outmoded X-ray machines, operating tables, needles, syringes and the like—and ship them to remote areas where churchmen tell him they are needed sorely.

He is convinced such equipment is in good supply in hospital storerooms across the country and, with hardly any effort at all, he has collected a couple of cast-off operating tables and an operating room light originally valued at $5,300.

READS OF DEMAND

A chance observation of a new X-ray machine in his home town hospital and an article he read in a church publication gave the Rev. Mr. Burlingham his idea.

The article, written by Dr. Ben Herbst, president of the United Church of Christ, described the lack of equipment in overseas mission stations and hospitals.

What happened to the local hospital's old X-ray machine? The Rev. Mr. Burlingham wondered when he read the article.

A telephone call established that the old machine was junked after the new equipment was installed. He then broadened his survey to determine what equipment was wanted and what was available. He fired off letters to 13 mission doctors. He visited or made telephone calls to hospitals in central Illinois and Chicago. He contacted the Church World Service Agency of the National Council of Churches to learn what was being done along that line.

HOSPITAL UTENSILS

Typical of the list of needs was the reply from Dr. Hale Henry Cook, a missionary in India.

He needed any hospital utensils of stainless steel, operating room tables with standard adjustments, bedside locker tables, steel cabinets, one-use needles, syringes, intravenous tubing sets, X-ray cassettes, adjustable over-bed tables, portable, battery-operated electrocardiograph, repairable operating room instruments of stainless steel and stretchers.

The Illinois minister already has received offers of cooperation from two hospitals in Chicago and three in downstate Illinois.

He also found that the United Church of Christ participates in a plan sponsored by the National Council of Churches whereby the United States government pays for the transportation of such supplies from port to port.

He said he learned that Church World Service, an agency of the National Council of Churches, will crate and waterproof supplies for overseas missions and deliver them to the pier from any of their warehouses.

COUNSEL FOR MILK BOARD STEPS DOWN

HARRISBURG (AP)—Marvin D. Weintraub, chief counsel of the State Milk Control Commission, will step down from his post next month, capping a series of events that first came to light last year.

Weintraub's resignation was accepted Thursday by Atty. Gen. David Stahl, effective by mid-April.

"I regret the fact that events have occurred which have made this action necessary on your part," Stahl said in accepting the resignation.

The State Justice Department began investigating Weintraub last December after receiving reports that he had accepted $300 in legal fees from the Farmers Delight Dairy of Leechburg, Armstrong County.

JUDGMENT ERROR

Weintraub, however, denied in his resignation letter that his performance of legal work for the firm was improper in any way.

"With respect to the legal work which you performed for the owner of a regulated dairy, a scrupulous regard for the position of trust which a public officer holds leads me to the conclusion that such private representation was not proper and constituted an error in judgment on your part," Stahl replied.

Shortly after the investigation got under way, Weintraub was relieved of his duties as prosecutor in a commission case against Farmers Delight. The dairy was accused of offering cash rebates to wholesale customers in violation of state milk regulations.

At a later hearing, dairy officials pleaded guilty to the charges and are now awaiting a decision by the commission.

Battlefield And Cyclorama Painting Is Presented To Public In A New And Most Attractive Form In New Building

Gettysburg . . .

On this hallowed ground, soldiers of a divided nation clashed in the greatest battle fought on American soil. Four months later, President Abraham Lincoln here called upon the nation to rededicate itself to the enduring principles of democratic government.

This legend chiseled on the starkly plain wall of the entrance foyer to the $967,000 Visitor Center of the Gettysburg National Military Park sets the theme for the new installation as it greets those who pass through the doors of the facility.

The Visitor Center, which includes the huge drum that houses the Paul Philippoteaux cyclorama depicting the climax of Pickett's Charge, will be opened Saturday to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. The Center will be open daily thereafter from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is located south of Gettysburg at Ziegler's Grove.

However, according to the announcement by James B. Myers, superintendent of the Park, the cyclorama, which is undergoing extensive restoration, will not be ready for public viewing until about June 1.

"MORE MEANINGFUL"

The Visitor Center is designed to give those coming here to see the battlefield some idea of where to go and what to see. And to make this information more meaningful, a number of features have been designed for quick observation by the public.

Central in the presentation is an auditorium that seats 200 in

The artistically arranged dioramas, set deep in the walls, depict the Barlow incident, in which General Barlow, of the Union Army, lies wounded and is given aid by Confederate General John B. Gordon. The two generals met years after the battle and became lifelong friends; in another Col. Pat O'Rourke leads the 140th New York Volunteers over the crest of Little Round Top; in the third is shown the Council of War at General Meade's Headquarters on the night of the Second Day's Battle in which the momentous decision was made to continue the fight and in the last of the dioramas the battered Confederate army is shown returning from the lines after their daring charge had failed. General Wilcox is shown talking with General Lee, in which conversation the commander told him: "Never mind, General, all this has been my fault. It is I who have lost the fight and you must help me out of it the best way you can."

TRIBUTE TO CAVALRY

Other display boxes in the walls show weapons of the Union Infantry and the Confederate Infantry; instruments used in the emergency field surgery, bottles productions of the first and second drafts of Lincoln's address, David Wills' photo, as well as that of the Emancipator and a letter from Secretary Stanton to the President telling of the arrangements for the Gettysburg visit are shown.

Of particular interest to Gettysburg residents is a display setting forth local sidelights of the battle. Pictured here are illustrations recalling the John Burns incident; the Jennie Wade story; the Wes Culp episode (in which Culp, a Gettysburg boy in the Confederate army, fought here and was killed on his cousin's army had 360 artillery pieces here and used them more effectively than the Confederates who had 272 pieces in action.

Lincoln's comments after the battle are recalled in a panel display of "Battle Sidelights" and the "Retreat from Gettysburg." He said: "We had them within our grasp. We had only to stretch forth our hands. And nothing I could say or do could make the Army move."

As his approach spirals away from the floor level it leaves a recessed portion under it, running from three to about five feet high. What to do with this area? What kind of a display would be appropriate? These were questions posed for the administrative staff

And here two of them came up with a rough-hewn display that is one of the interesting features of the exhibit area. Superintendent Myers and Supervisor Historian Harry W. Pfanz conceived a ground display that portrays effectively and with robust artistry the terrain of parts of the battlefield.

THREE-RAIL FENCE
At one spot is one of the characteristic three-rail fences of the countryside; at another spot is a shattered gun carriage from the battlefield, which had been stored for years in one of the park warehouses; at other places in the stairway underground are ancient tree stumps taken from the battlefield area and rounding out the rustic unit are large rocks typical of the Round Top area and tons of native stones ranging from pebble size to that of an ostrich

egg. Interspersed in the area are hardy plantings, not native to the area but giving the needed green touch, and through the exhibit soil arrangement gives the suggestion of a dry stream bed. The display has drawn "bravos."

"Necessity sometimes creates artists of sorts," one of the staff suggested.

The auditorium of the Visitor Center has a number of novel features. While it seats 200 ordinarily, it is constructed so that the east wall may be rolled back and an additional area, in which there is a permanent rostrum with loud speaker, adds another 200 to the capacity for inside meetings. Even more elastic, the doors can be thrown open, if weather is fair and a massive crowd is to be accommodated and, using the same speaker's stand and amplifiers, the auditorium, inside and out, can service thousands.

OBSERVATION DECK
Another feature of the auditorium is that screen, on which the 46-frame orientation slide program is flashed, can be rolled back and a small stage is provided if some program requires it.

Visitors to the Center will not be without an outside view. A damp leads to a long observation deck at the second floor level and from that vantage point they have a clear sweep of the second and third days' battle areas and the W. Confederate Ave. stretch of Lee's line on the first day, while rising in the distance to the south are the Catocin Mountains and the to the west the South Mountain chain of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

TOUCH OF REALISM

Adding a touch of realism to the battle exhibit is an authentic artillery piece, a bronze Napoleon gun. The "pipe" or barrel is the original unit, but the carriage, constructed of wood as was the original, was made at the Federal Reformatory at Lorton, Va. The display recalls also that the Un-

Confederate Ave. stretch of Lee's line on the first day, while rising in the distance to the south are the Catocin Mountains and the to the west the South Mountain chain of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

After the majestic sweep from this unobstructed point, tourists will find numerous maps under glass, pointing out to them the strategic points of the battle lines within their view. The deck may be staffed with aides to assist designated a short walking tour that can be taken after the visit to the observation deck. This leads to Meade's headquarters nearby to the east, thence to the High Water Mark, which would be viewed from the south and west sides to give a better idea of the elevation and thence to the Bloody Angle and to the Bryan House before returning to the Center, which is the first Visitor Center available here in the park's 67-year history.

It is also interesting to note that the Gettysburg reservation is the only national park in the country which has not had a Visitor Center.

The entire facility is set in a 16-acre site, while the building, including the cyclorama drum, covers about three acres. Ample parking space is provided in the carefully landscaped grounds.

ESTORE PAINTING
The Philippoteaux cyclorama has been under restoration since 1960. The restoration posed a monumental job for Walter Nitkiewicz and his staff of several artists. The painting had undergone years of radical temperature changes in its former home on the old Baltimore St. site. Deterioration in some parts of it were serious and the utmost care was necessary in moving and storing the huge painting.

Now that the restoration is nearly finished the large, heavy sections must be carefully put in place in the circular area by pulley devices.

The cyclorama was painted in 1881 by Paul Dominique Philippoteaux, the French artist, and has been exhibited in Gettysburg since 1913.

DAMAGED BY WATER
The painting was purchased in Boston about that time by Albert Hahne, a Newark, N. J., department store owner, who was anxious to display it in his store.

This leads to Meade's headquarters nearby to the east, thence to the High Water Mark, which would be viewed from the south and west sides to give a better idea of the elevation and thence to the Bloody Angle and to the Bryan House before returning to the Center, which is the first Visitor Center available here in the park's 67-year history.

It is also interesting to note that the Gettysburg reservation is the only national park in the country which has not had a Visitor Center.

The entire facility is set in a 16-acre site, while the building, including the cyclorama drum, covers about three acres. Ample parking space is provided in the carefully landscaped grounds.

ESTORE PAINTING
The Philippoteaux cyclorama has been under restoration since 1960. The restoration posed a monumental job for Walter Nitkiewicz and his staff of several artists. The painting had undergone years of radical temperature changes in its former home on the old Baltimore St. site. Deterioration in some parts of it were serious and the utmost care was necessary in moving and storing the huge painting.

Now that the restoration is nearly finished the large, heavy sections must be carefully put in place in the circular area by pulley devices.

The cyclorama was painted in 1881 by Paul Dominique Philippoteaux, the French artist, and has been exhibited in Gettysburg since 1913.

DAMAGED BY WATER
The painting was purchased in Boston about that time by Albert Hahne, a Newark, N. J., department store owner, who was anxious to display it in his store.

which there will be a continuous showing of a 16-minute slide orientation, in which a taped description of the battle events, the battlefield development and the other features leads visitors through a short course in the history that was made here at Gettysburg.

MUSEUM EXHIBIT

Included also on the first floor level is an impressive museum exhibit composed of a series of four dioramas, panels, recessed shadow boxes, maps, display boards which exhibit scores of relics, reproductions of historic papers, and many old photo-of quinine and morphine and other equipment of the medics of that day; scenes in battlefield hospitals and field care of the wounded; and under the caption "Gallip, March, Charge" pay tribute to the cavalry of the Army of the Potomac, which before Gettysburg was inferior to Lee's troopers, but came into its own at the battle here.

A well-arranged panel at one end of the museum area displays mementoes of the visit of President Lincoln here when he delivered his immortal address. The Wills building, the Western Maryland Railroad station, re-

"Necessity sometimes creates artists of sorts," one of the staff suggested.

The auditorium of the Visitor Center has a number of novel features. While it seats 200 ordinarily, it is constructed so that the east wall may be rolled back and an additional area, in which there is a permanent rostrum with loud speaker, adds another 200 to the capacity for inside meetings. Even more elastic, the doors can be thrown open, if weather is fair and a massive crowd is to be accommodated and, using the same speaker's stand and amplifiers, the auditorium, inside and out, can service thousands.

ious to house it in Gettysburg. He interested some local business men in the project and the site on Baltimore Street near the National Cemetery entrance was acquired and the cheese-box structure of tile was put up to house the painting.

The painting had been damaged by water while in the Boston warehouse, when a fire occurred. After it was brought here Charles Morris Young, Philadelphia artist, was commissioned to do the re-touching. It remained under local direction until 1942 when the Department of the Interior of the United States government acquired the massive piece of art.

No fixed price was set at that time, but an arrangement was made with Jeremiah Hoover, a New Jersey attorney who handled Hahne's legal affairs before his death, that the U.S. pay $3,000 a year to him (Mr. Hoover) or his wife, whichever one lived the longer. After that the painting will become the property of the government.

"HISTORIC OBJECT"

Incidentally, the United States Congress has officially declared the cyclorama a "National Historic Object" and as such it can be expected to have official attention when required.

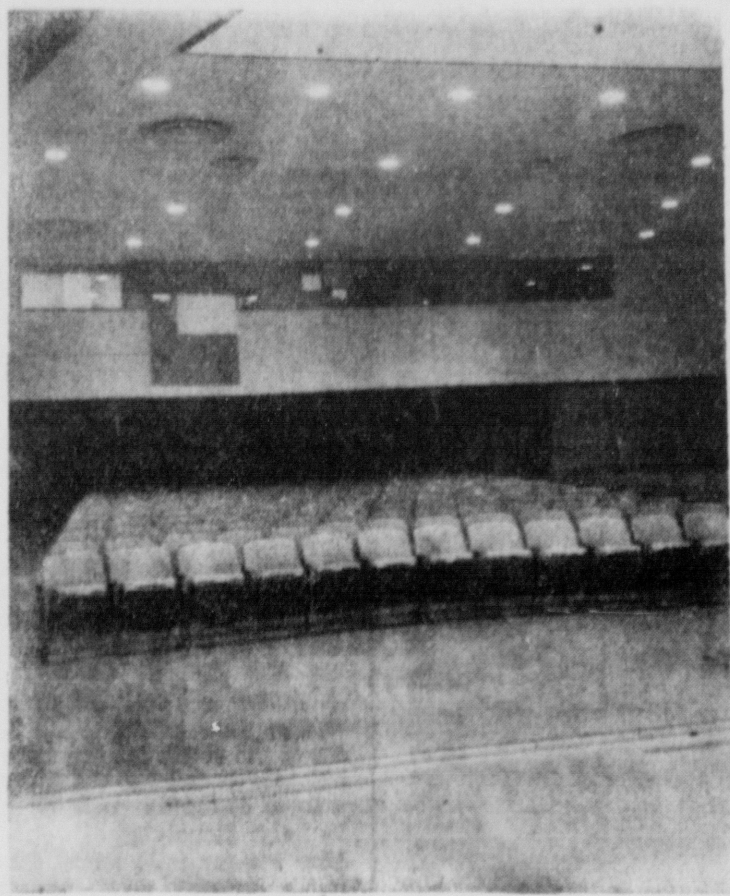

Hundreds of thousands of school children, as well as adults, have seen the painting since it was first exhibited here. Under the arrangement which will be put

Cyclorama Sunshine

James B. Myers, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Park, has no drape or curtain cleaning problems at the offices in the Visitor Center building. A unique system of aluminum louvers on the east side of building, controlled by two sets of discs, moves automatically with the sun, never allowing direct rays to enter offices. They close at night, open as sun rays peek out in the morning. There is always plenty of light, however, in the office wing.

The restoration job on the Philippoteaux painting will cost approximately $70,000. The entire painting received a backing of linen. No American firm would make the linen in the width needed. So officials turned to a Belgian firm.

Slide projectors in orientation feature at Visitor Center are controlled by receptionists at entrance to Center. While auditorium crowd gathers—presto! a button is pushed and slides flash on screen, with taped lecture accompanying. Two machines with duplicate slides guard against danger of malfunction of one of them jamming the show. Beeps in the tapes control lights.

Walter Nitkiewicz, chief artist on cyclorama restoration, is government expert with park service, who touches up things artistically throughout park system. He's done stand-out jobs at Independence Hall in Philadelphia and at Roosevelt-Vanderbilt national historic site at Hyde Park, N. Y. His preservation job on ancient murals in famous St. Louis post office won wide acclaim.

The Measure of Gettysburg: From the youth of the nation, more than 172,000 soldiers, about 75,000 Confederates and 97,000 Union soldiers, joined in battle.

About 51,000 American battle casualties occurred in three days.

Revolutionary War had about 12,000 battle casualties in six years.

Three days' total casualties of 51,000 equalled six weeks' casualties on Iwo Jima.

National Park Service Is Pressing Quest For Truth Of All Civil War History

How did a Yankee soldier in Gen. George Meade's XII Corps carry his canteen at the Battle of Gettysburg? Was the cannon ball in the old building at Gettysburg really lodged there during the battle? What happened in the battle at Wilson's Creek? Was Cabrillo a Spaniard or a Portuguese?

Thus writes Felix Belair Jr., correspondent for the New York Times, in a recent dispatch from Washington, D.C. He frequently accompanied Gen. Eisenhower to Gettysburg when he was President. Continuing Blair wrote:

These are some of the questions of an obscure but dedicated band of federal career workers try to answer to get at the truth of American history.

So that they can answer such questions, they are asking Congress for $5,000,000 this year. A typical reaction to the request came from Representative Michael J. Kirwan, Democrat of Ohio, and chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee.

He commented that the story of the Battle of Gettysburg during the Civil War had been told "down to the detail of where every man's footsteps were."

NEED MORE RESEARCH
Yes, a lot has been told about the battle of July 1-3, 1863, conceded Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service. But he said that some of those footprints had been misplaced in the telling and retelling of the story and more research was needed to get at the truth.

For Dr. Charles W. Porter, acting chief historian, and Dr.

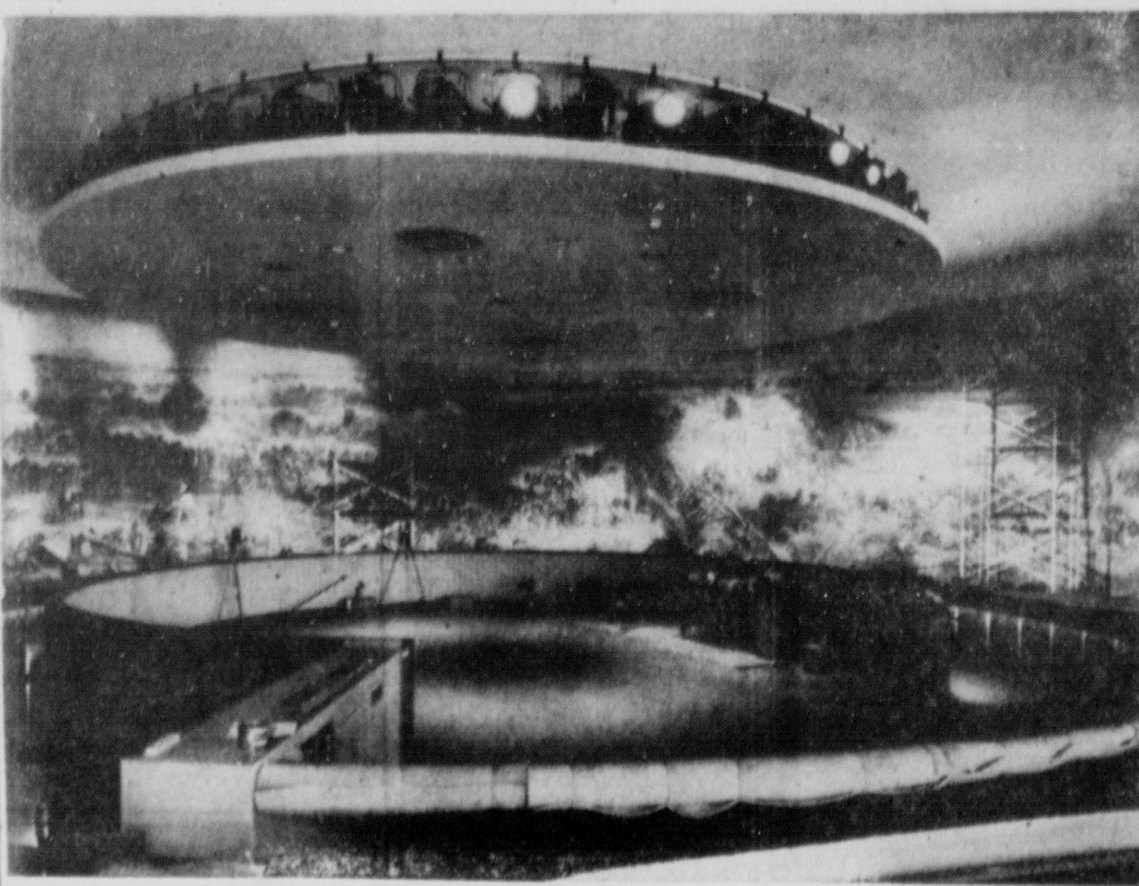

J. Walter Coleman (formerly superintendent of the Gettysburg Battlefield), staff historian of the Park Service, the truth sometimes is hard to find. They chuckled over some of their experiences as historical detectives.

Dr. Porter, a small, wiry man with the look of an abstract scholar but with a free-swinging vocabulary, told of the time the Park Service was offered drawings of the McLean House, the building in which Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to General Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox, Va. The price was $750.

MADE BY CONTRACTOR
"We didn't know what the drawings were," he related. "They could be the real thing or they could be phonies. So we sent them over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

"The FBI said they were OK, that the ink and paper were from the period, 1893, when the house was torn down by promoters for exhibition at the Chicago World's Fair. We did some further research and discovered the drawings had been made by the contractor who had torn down the house."

"We're not trying to reconstruct history in the grand manner," Dr. Coleman said. "The motives, implications and results of Gettysburg and other events in our country's history have been written, and well, by many writers. But there are some unanswered questions and you would be surprised how many visitors to our national monuments, parks and battlefields ask all kinds of questions."

Top of the drum which houses the cyclorama painting.

Gen. Lee with retreating troops after charge.

Dr. Coleman ticked off a list of some writers of history who had called the Park Service historians for information on details, some so obscure that research was needed. The list included MacKinley Kantor, Philip Van Doren Stern, and Marc Connelly.

He recalled the late Lloyd Lewis, biographer of Gen. William T. Sherman, Mr. Lewis had written of a meeting between Sherman and Grant on a hill after Grant had taken Vicksburg.

He visited the Vicksburg Battlefield one day when Dr. Coleman was superintendent there. "He said he wanted to go to the exact spot on the hill where Sherman and Grant met," Dr. Coleman said. "I wish we could have taken him there but there was no such place. They probably met in a tent somewhere."

Dr. Porter said the Park Service historians tried to "get back as close to the time" of an event as possible. "The longer we live the farther away we get, and that makes our task more difficult."

FOOTNOTE ON LINCOLN
He was interrupted by a telephone call. The caller wanted to know the name of the play President Lincoln was watching when he was shot in Ford's Theater here.

"Our American Cousin," Dr. Porter reported. The caller was not satisfied. "My grandfather told me it was 'country cousin,'" he said. Dr. Porter suggested he consult the Park Service historian at Ford's Theater, whose job is to keep track of such bits of history.

"Suppose," Dr. Porter resumed, "we needed to make a diorama at Gettysburg that would cost $10,000 to depict an actual occurrence there and we didn't have adequate information, other than general material, on the soldiers' uniforms, how many buttons on the jackets, how rifles were slung on horses, or distances between lines of men."

"So we make the diorama, and one day we're told that it's all wrong, that rifles were not carried by horsemen as we had shown or that the bridges it would be wrong, and we're out weren't made that way in 1863. $10,000."

It's value that puts Valiant on the best-seller list!

Make book on it.

What follows is fact—not fiction—and no names have been changed to protect anybody.

Chapter I starts with style. It asks who is the only compact ever to receive the Society of Illustrators' award for design excellence. Answer: The Valiant Signet 200—America's lowest-priced hardtop with bucket seats—that's who!

Chapter II talks performance. Valiant can, and has, run circles around every competitively priced compact, including Falcon, Corvair and Lark.

All of which leads many to suspect they know the plot—Valiant is priced with the so-called "super-compacts." Not so, reveals the surprise ending in Chapter III. Valiant is priced competitively with Falcon, Corvair, Rambler and Lark.

A Bit Of History About Early Settlers

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

THE BUCHANAN-SPEER-LANE FAMILIES

The rather sketchy historical and genealogical outline of the Buchanan-Speer-Lane families is continued at this time. At this point it might be appropriate to say that it is to be regretted that so little material pertaining to Harriet Rebecca (Lane) Johnston, the niece and hostess of President James Buchanan, is still in existence, or can be found, at the present time. Mrs. Johnston died in 1903, a comparatively recent date, historically speaking, but she must have enjoyed a "grand and glorious" bonfire before her death — feeling that since the nation so little appreciated the public services of her adored uncle, President James Buchanan, the people would have little interest in source material pertaining to her life.

There is still hope, however, that a great deal of data — letters, diaries, etc., might still be found among the papers of kindred families and friends. The readers of this column should look in their attics and other storage places — they might be surprised at which they find. Mrs. Johnston had friends and relatives in what is now Adams County and she was an avid correspondent.

BURIAL LIST

The list of the members of the Buchanan family and allied lines buried in the old Waddell Graveyard near Mercersburg is concluded at this time.

8. The Sarah (Buchanan) Huston, the inscription from whose grave marker was given in last week's column, was a daughter of James (Senior) and Elizabeth (Speer) Buchanan and a sister of President James Buchanan.

9. "In memory of Harriet E. Henry, Relict of the Rev. Robert Henry. Born August 5, 1802. Died January 23, 1840."

Note: — Another daughter of James (Senior) and Elizabeth (Speer) Buchanan and a sister of President James Buchanan. The "Henry cousins" were great favorites of Harriet Lane and James Buchanan Henry was the private secretary of President James Buchanan.

10. "Sacred to the memory of Jesse Magaw, M.D. Died September 29, 1823. Aged 36 years and 10 months."

"FAMILY MAN" Note: — A son of Dr. William

Magaw, a surgeon in the War of the American Revolution, who settled at Mercersburg, Pa., after 1783. Dr. Jesse Magaw was related to the Buchanans by marriage.

George A. Seilhamer, the Pennsylvania historian, wrote (in 1906) of Harriet (Lane) Johnston and her family: —

"President James Buchanan, the son of James and Elizabeth (Speer) Buchanan, was a distinct 'family man' and although denied, by a quirk of fate, a wife and children of his own, took a lively interest in his nieces and nephews — many of whom had been orphaned early in life.

JANE BUCHANAN WEDS

"The sister of President James Buchanan, Jane Buchanan, married Elliott Toll Lane, a Virginian, who had come to Mercersburg, Pa., and was a merchant in the little mountain town. It was their daughter, Harriet Rebecca Lane, who, as the protégée of her uncle, James Buchanan, was the Lady of the White House during her uncle's term as President of the United States. Harriet Lane lost her parents in early girlhood and after their death she became an inmate of the bachelor home of her uncle. During Mr. Buchanan's absences in Washington, D. C., Harriet lived with two Lancaster dames, the Misses Crawford. She had private teachers, and attended a school in Lancaster, Pa. With her sister, Mary Buchanan Lane, she later was sent to a boarding school at Charlestown, Va., and her education was completed at the Roman Catholic Convent at Georgetown.

"James Buchanan's correspondence with his niece, Harriet Lane, began when she was a school girl and continued through the years. It was the death of James Buchanan that finally put an end to the affectionate relationship between the beautiful and tactful Harriet (Lane) Johnston — a tie not only of blood but of companionship and mutual interests built up through the years. In the letters that passed between the two there is mention of visits to Bedford Springs; from the Charlestown, Va., boarding school in 1845; to Racaway, from the Georgetown convent, in 1847, and at home at 'Wheatland' in 1849. During the two or three years following Harriet Lane made extended visits to New York, Baltimore, Washington, and Pittsburgh, becoming a favorite in society wherever she was known. In the latter city she was often the guest of Dr. and Mrs. James (Ramsey) Speer — Dr. Speer being a full cousin of her mother. She had, by this time, become an accomplished and beautiful young lady, with charming and cordial manners.

MINISTER TO ENGLAND

"When James Buchanan became minister to England, in 1853, Miss Lane did not immediately accompany him abroad. However, she joined her uncle in England in the spring of 1854 and remained with him until the autumn of 1855. Ambassador Buchanan obtained social recognition for his niece in England which was highly gratifying. She (Harriet Lane) became a favorite with the royal family and when her uncle was honored by an honorary degree at Oxford the students joined in a mass demonstration for Harriet Lane that was unique both for time and place.

"The friendship for and with the English royal family continued throughout Harriet Lane's lifetime and in later years, when visiting England, she was always the guest of Edward VII and Queen Alexandra."

JERSEY WILL REQUIRE $31.5 MILLION FOR RESTORATION

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A preliminary survey by the Philadelphia District of the Corps of Army Engineers showed New Jersey shore and coastal towns will require about $31.5 million for restoration work following last week's storm.

The study, disclosed Wednesday, also showed that Sussex County, in the lower end of Delaware, would need about $5.5 million for restoration.

The restoration work includes sea walls, dunes, dikes, jetties, beaches and boardwalks.

Col. Truman H. Setliffe, Philadelphia district engineer, said the total estimate of $37 million for the two states includes $12 million which would be used to build protective works for the preservation of life and property under Public Law 875, if it is authorized by the administration.

NEW JERSEY HIT

Setliffe said the preliminary survey disclosed that the heaviest damage in New Jersey was in Cape May County where the loss was estimated at $17 million, including $3.5 million needed for public health and safety. In Cape May the resorts of Ocean City, Sea Isle City and Avalon suffered the heaviest damage.

Second hardest hit, according to damage estimated at $9.5 million, years a story appeared in many of the leading newspapers of this country which was, unfortunately, accepted as true by many people. It stated that Harriet Lane had declined, in no uncertain terms, a proposal of marriage made by King Edward VII — when he was the young Prince of Wales. There is absolutely no basis of fact in any existing documents on which to base such a premise.

The Buchanan-Lane notes will be continued in this column next week.

most of which was on the shores and bay of Long Beach Island. For public health and safety $4.5 million is required.

The engineers said $5 million would be needed to restore public works in Atlantic County. Most damage in this county was in Brigantine, Ventnor, Margate and Longport.

Meanwhile, Setliffe directed John Balsam, area engineer for the state of Delaware, to start work immediately to close barriers breached on a five-mile stretch between Dewey Beach and Indian River Inlet.

PLUGS HOLDING

Nicholas Barbieri, area engineer in charge of operations on Long Beach Island, reported that the plugs used to temporarily close four gaps where the ocean broke through in Harvey Cedars are still holding.

He said contractors are continuing to erect new four-foot barriers on the sand dune line and the job is one-third finished.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes, after a tour Wednesday met with some 500 persons in Atlantic City—many of them officials of the storm-shattered communities—to discuss what should be done.

Hughes and Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Lipscomb of the engineers said the task of providing immediate protection from future storms is as important as recovering from the devastation.

HURRICANE SEASON

Temporary beach and dune protection must be provided before Aug. 15, the approximate beginning of the call hurricane season, Lipscomb said. He indicated that lack of funds might hamper efforts to replace protective elements torn away by the storm.

Sen. Frank S. Farley, R-Atlantic, questioned Hughes' request for $30.5 million in aid from the federal government. "You're so modest in your request," he told the governor, and suggested the amount sought should be $75 million.

Hughes replied that he could ask for more at any time.

IRS HURTING TOWN PEOPLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service says it was only trying to be helpful in sending a flock of agents to a tiny Arkansas community. But some of the townspeople don't seem to appreciate it.

In fact, the citizens of Fordyce—Pop. 3,890—got so nervous they stopped buying things, the local Chamber of Commerce complained Wednesday. It said business in Dallas County—Pop. 10,522—declined 50 per cent since the 30 or so agents dropped into town 10 days ago.

GREATLY EXCITED

"It has excited people beyond imagination," said one chamber official. And a Fordyce merchant quoted a would-be customer as saying: "I need to buy a TV, but I'm going to wait until I see what these revenue boys do to me."

All the IRS agents meant to do to the people of Fordyce was to help them with their tax returns—not to frighten them, a man said.

He said citizens were advised the agents would be available to

Predict Colder Days For Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Colder-than-normal weather will continue through most of the nation for another 30 days, the Weather Bureau reported Wednesday.

Its 30-day outlook for the period extending to mid-April calls for below-normal temperatures over most of the nation, except for near to slightly above normal temperatures from the Great Lakes eastward and also in coastal areas along the Gulf of Mexico and Pacific Northwest.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over most areas except for subnormal amounts over the southern Plains and Pacific Northwest and near-normal amounts in the far Southwest, the bureau said.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?

There may be several reasons, but among them would be:

1. A greater demand for the product

2. A more desirable product for resale

So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

See your Chevrolet dealer for a quality Chevrolet Jobmaster truck.

"We changed from electric to GAS heat. Now we pay only one-third as much... and we heat our entire basement, too."

Says Mr. R. E. Davidson, 126 Pleasantview Street, Beaver Falls, Pa.

After heating their new home with electric resistance heat for one year, the Davidsons converted to GAS heat. (The Davidson home is fully insulated and has storm doors and windows as required for electric resistance heat installations.) Now they pay one dollar for every three they spent while they heated with electricity. For instance, the cost of electric heating of the first floor area only was $400.51. After they converted to GAS heat, their total cost for keeping the entire house at a comfortable temperature was $136.11.

"NOW I CAN USE MY BASEMENT ALL WINTER LONG," says Mrs. Davidson. Because of the excessive cost of electric heating, it is impractical to heat the basement. But with economical GAS, every part of the house is kept at a comfortable temperature—even the garage! Think what this means. Double the space for recreation and household chores. In the Davidson's home, the basement area equals the first floor area—1,092 square feet for each level. So GAS heating doubled the living area in winter—at 1/3 the cost!

COMPARE THE COST of actual electric and gas bills paid by the Davidsons. Below is a table showing electric heating costs for the 1959-1960 winter, and GAS heating costs for the 1960-1961 winter. Remember, the 1960-1961 winter was particularly severe. Even so, GAS bills were so much lower.

... the Davidsons saved
$264.40 in heating costs in one winter... with GAS!

Job Security Is Posing Many Difficult Problems

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Job security is the prime goal of much of the labor force today. And the other side of the coin is what to do about those who lose their jobs anyway. Both sides swing into focus this week.

Retraining is one cure proposed. A shorter work week to spread the jobs is another. Still others are curbs on automation and restrictions against foreign goods that could hurt American factories and thus cost jobs.

The front pages are full of these items:

Job security is one of the big stumbling blocks as the steel labor talks are renewed in Pittsburgh. The issue is also behind labor's attacks on proposed mergers in rail and air transportation. It is the prime reason the rail unions fight the proposed changes in work rules, which management brands as featherbedding.

WORKER TRAINING

Worker training is to get a wider tryout through the $434-million voted for it by Congress.

And at the same time Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg is telling Congress that the administration bill to move toward freer world trade, especially with the industrialized European Common Market, could cost 90,000 jobs in some American industries hit by higher imports. He quickly adds that the program is expected to open up many times that number of jobs by increasing American exports.

All the current news items stress how complex is the problem of moving into a new age at home and in world contacts without hurting too many individuals.

DIFFERENT WORKERS

The federal training program will be aimed at two kinds of workers—older ones whose particular skills have been made obsolete either by replacement by machines or by changing tastes of consumers; and younger workers, increasingly entering the labor force, who may have little skill at all or much of an idea of what skills are in demand.

A number of corporate and community training programs have been tried. Critics say the results often have been poor. Many older jobless persons don't want to move to unknown work fields or strange communities where different kinds of jobs might be found. Some older persons don't learn new tricks easily. Many of the jobs going begging are for skills beyond ordinary training programs to develop.

But the administration hopes that a broad attack on the problem will work.

OPPOSE LABOR PLANS

Labor's plans for spreading the work through shorter work weeks or easing the pain by higher benefits during layoff periods is often attacked by management as too costly. Management also argues it can't hold price lines unless it cuts labor costs by more mechanization. It points to the increasing costs of unemployment benefits and pensions and medical care.

The free trade issue splits both labor and management. Where imports could hurt, both the companies and their unions tend to be loud in protest against the administration plan. Where a chance is seen for more exports—meaning more jobs and more profits—the plan draws supporters.

EAST BERLIN — The East Berlin Lions Club at its Tuesday evening meeting at Lau's Restaurant decided to conduct a food stand at the public sale of Ralph Boyer April 14 and 16. On April 26, the Lions will hold a public auction at the local fire hall. Articles sold will be donated by persons in the community who are interested in the services of the club. Following the meeting, the club bowed at Hagerman's. The next meeting will be held March 27 at the same place.

Twenty-three members attended the fire company meeting Tuesday evening in the fire hall. Two calls were reported for the month. Two new members, Nelson Groupe and Robert Rohrbaugh, and one honorary member, Dale Keller, Gettysburg, were enrolled. A vigilance committee appointed Melvin Eisenhart, Russell Fissel and Roy Chronister. At the next meeting, April 10, plans for the carnival, July 31 through Aug. 4, will be discussed.

CBS ATTEMPTS TO EQUAL NBC NEWS SHOWS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A combination of ratings rivalry with NBC and a recent change in top management in the news department probably is the cause of CBS' decision to put Walter Cronkite in Douglas Edwards' seat on its early evening news show.

Edwards, on the air at the dinner hour for almost 14 years (his program is on either at 6:15 or 7:15 p.m. all over the country) is a steady, unemotional type of news reporter.

Cronkite, who has been a solid team player, on CBS through the years, recently has been attracting critical bouquets on "location" assignments. He was CBS' key reporter, covering the John H. Glenn Jr. space trip, and was generally credited with outstanding work in a difficult spot. And he was also praised highly for his thoughtful, well-prepared interviews with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a recent three-part "CBS Reports" series.

BACK TO NORMAL

CBS, since it took a bad licking on convention coverage two summers back and lost its top commentator, Edward R. Murrow, has been trying to find a way back to its former news preeminence. And by former, one means the days before NBC's glamorous Huntley-Brinkley team started grabbing off most of the kudos and ratings.

Edwards, whose CBS contract still has four and one-half years to run, wanted to leave the network, which offered him only a five-minute mid-afternoon news show to replace the prime-time plum it is taking away. He has received a good offer elsewhere.

His request, however, was turned down on the simple ground that "Doug opposite our show on another network would be harmful to CBS."

FIRST U.S. CRIMINAL

America's first foreign-born criminal had a name which would be acceptable even to the sensitive censors of "Untouchables" scripts. He was John Billington, who started a mutiny aboard the Mayflower and finally was hanged, drawn and quartered for ambushing and killing a fellow Pilgrim. Writer Philip Reisman Jr. found Mr. B. while researching "Cops and Robbers," Sunday night's NBC historical documentary on indigenous crime.

RAPS PICTURE OF U.S. YOUTH

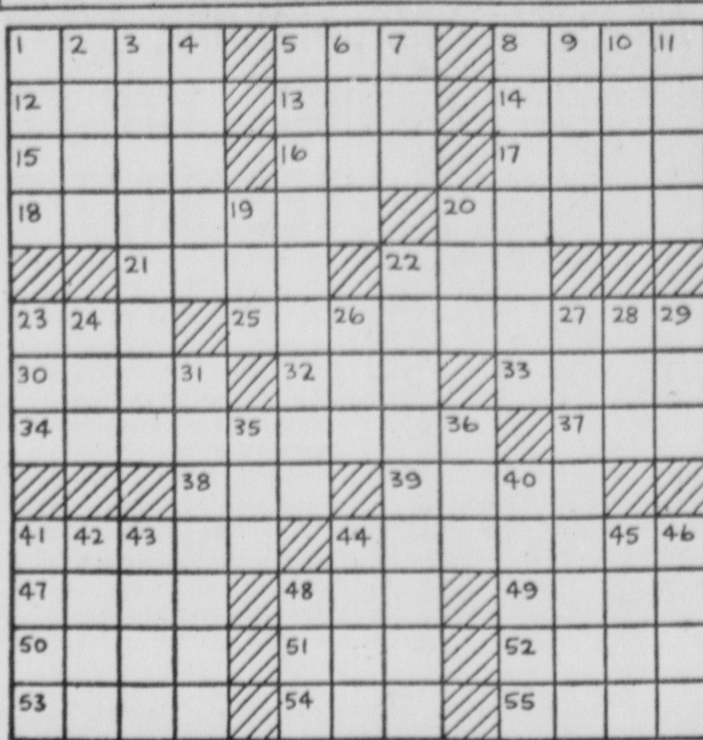

WASHINGTON (AP)—A prominent writer on military affairs said today he was tired of hearing American fighting men downgraded and vilified as weaklings.

S. L. A. Marshall, a retired brigadier general who writes for the Detroit News, said in testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee investigating troop indoctrination:

"I cannot imagine anything worse for this country than an unjustified lamenting, a beating of flowers. The cookie sale has ended and the orders have been placed. The Scouts and Brownies will leave Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to attend the Juliette Low rally in Gettysburg. Registrations are due now.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh electrical industry pioneer, William C. Robinson, died Wednesday night in his suburban Sewickley Heights home. He was 94.

He founded the National Electric Products Co. in 1905 and served as president and board chairman of the firm.

In addition, he was a former director of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Phelps Dodge Corp., Western Allegheny Railroad and American Water Works Co.

DR. COMPTON, FAMED ATOMIC PHYSICIST, DIES

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Physicist Arthur H. Compton, 69, a clergyman's son whose work led to the atomic bomb and world-wide fame, died Thursday from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Compton, a Nobel Prize winner and one of this nation's most respected scientists, entered Alta Bates Community Hospital here March 1, suffering dizziness and nausea. He lost consciousness March 3.

He remained in critical condition and unconscious until his death, shortly after 5 a.m.

PLANNED SEMINARS

A former chancellor of Washington University in St. Louis, Dr. Compton arrived here last month as a professor-at-large at the University of California. He had planned a series of seminars at UC campuses throughout the state.

In 1958, while at Washington University, Compton suffered a cerebral vascular occlusion. He had apparently recovered from it and was considered in excellent health.

SHARED NOBEL PRIZE

Among the noted scientist's most acclaimed achievements was his work that led to the first nuclear chain reaction and eventually the atomic bomb. He was at the University of Chicago at the time. He spent 22 years there before becoming an administrator at the end of World War II.

Compton shared the Nobel Prize in 1927 with Prof. Charles T. R. Wilson of Cambridge University for their X-ray studies in the exploration of the structure of the atom.

Compton was born Sept. 10, 1892, at Wooster, Ohio, where his father, a Presbyterian clergyman, was president of Wooster College. Two uncles also were college presidents. An aunt was married to another. The four had a total of 30 college degrees.

SCIENTIST AS YOUTH

Encouraged during his youth to pursue his interest in science, Compton sold scientific articles to magazines while still in high school, attached a camera to a telescope to photograph the planets and invented and patented a gyroscopic stabilizer for airplanes. He was graduated from Wooster in 1913 with a bachelor of science degree and received his doctorate at Princeton. He taught physics at Washington University in St. Louis and went to the University of Chicago, where he was chairman of the Department of Physics and dean of the physical sciences.

It was at Chicago during World War II that he was named chairman of the committee of the National Academy of Science which was charged with developing the use of uranium in war.

He directed the work which led to the first atomic reactor and thereafter the atomic bomb and production of plutonium.

When the discovery of nuclear fission led to the atomic bomb, Compton became an advocate of turning nuclear energy into peaceful channels. Mankind now had the power to destroy itself, he argued, and must live together with common objective and brotherhood or it cannot live at all.

Compton married a Wooster school friend, Betty C. McCloskey, June 28, 1916. They had two sons, Arthur Alan, a U.S. foreign service officer in Manila; and John Joseph, professor of philosophy at Vanderbilt University.

Compton's brother, Wilson Compton, former president of Washington State University at Pullman, Wash., now is retired in 1913 with a bachelor of science and lives at Wooster.

JFK BROADENS HIS OFFER ON SUMMIT TALK

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has broadened the circumstances under which he would attend a summit meeting at Geneva. But officials said today that so far none of the conditions has developed.

"We will have to wait and see whether events make such a trip useful," Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday.

Restating his criteria for going to the 17-nation Geneva disarmament parley, the President said he would attend (1) to ratify an agreement or (2) "If we were on a brink of a war or a serious international crisis, where my presence would make a significant difference."

ADDS CONDITION

Then, he said, "I would add a third one: I would go if I thought it was in our national interest."

"I do not intend to go unless there is a situation developed which I believe would make such a trip fruitful and rewarding," he said.

Informants said the President was in effect, repeating criteria he set forth in the past. And there have been no developments in the Geneva conference to justify such a visit, they said.

The talks on Berlin, between Secretary of State Dean Rusk, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, have been far from encouraging, the informants said.

BRITISH COOL

A clearer indication of results on disarmament is not expected here until the newly begun conference has held more sessions.

Kennedy indicated Wednesday he had backed off from previous emphasis on need for inspections to safeguard against secret preparations of atomic tests, in addition to controls against the tests themselves.

The British have been cool toward anti-preparation controls, favoring instead easing international inspection requirements where possible to meet Soviet objections.

Kennedy said Wednesday the West will offer some proposals to make it more difficult to undertake preparations but "I have never suggested that we could develop a foolproof system on preparations and I don't regard that as significant."

Massive Search For Killer Begins

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — A massive search was under way today for the killer who shot down a Bartlesville area housewife Wednesday, apparently while two of her children watched in fright.

Police think the victim, Bertha Bartholomew, 39, surprised a burglar in her farm home. She and the children were kidnapped but the children were released unharmed.

Authorities have picked up at least one person for questioning. Three-year-old Martin Bartholomew, tugging the hand of his 19-month-old sister, Leslie Ann, led a motorist to his mother's body in a barn near Ponca City, 70 miles west of here. She had been shot once in the head.

A Lovelier You

By MARY SUE MILLER
CLEAN-UP TIME FOR COMPLEXIONS. A woman's skin, not unlike her home, could usually do with an extra-special cleaning at the end of winter. The same can be said of a teen—her skin and her room.

If your skin has lost color, clarity or tone, it's for certain it needs a thorough clean-up. By what method depends on individual needs. The possibilities are covered below. Just choose to use the method with your name on it, and your skin will come to look blossom fresh.

Does your skin appear drab—pale or sallow? Then cleanse with mentholated shaving soap. Work it up into a thick lather, either with your fingertips or a soft complexion brush. Rinse well and apply cold-water compresses for three minutes. Repeat once daily for two weeks. And if your skin is dry, follow sudings with a film of light skin cream or oil.

Does your skin feel slack? In that event, lather up with a super-fatted soap; rinse and dry well. Next apply a rich emollient and compress comfortably hot water to your face. After tussling off the oil, finish with pats of chilled witch hazel or mild skin freshener. Repeat twice weekly.

Are blackheads the trouble? Wash twice weekly with a grainy cleanser. Detailed instructions come with packages.

For springtime loveliness most skin requires additional care. But its success rests on a clean-up.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write me: A Lovelier You, Box 138, The Gettysburg Times, Dundee, Ill., enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

GLENN SHRUGS OFF TROUBLE WITH YOUTHS

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. has shrugged off as a minor matter his encounter with a gang of trouble-making teen-agers at an Arlington, Va., church.

Glenn told his pastor, the Rev. Frank Erwin, that it was a disgrace for young people to act that way. But he told police he won't file a formal complaint against the youths—one of whom tried to hit him—unless local authorities insist.

The affair came to light Wednesday. A space agency spokesman reported Glenn, now back at Cape Canaveral, Fla., "said there was nothing to it, except that there was some boisterousness at the church and he happened to be there."

HURLS BEER CAN

The Washington Evening Star reported police Sgt. Warren Sisk's account of the incident:

The astronaut, who has a home in suburban Arlington, went to pick up his 14-year-old daughter, Lyn, at a private home where she had been attending a party Saturday night.

Outside, he found a group of teen-age boys who apparently had failed in an attempt to crash the affair. One of the gang threw a beer can into the yard, and Glenn ordered him to pick it up. The boy protested but obeyed.

When the Marine lieutenant colonel emerged from the house, he heard some of the boys say they were going to a youth center at the Little Falls United Presbyterian Church, which the Glenns attend. He drove there, fearing the youths might cause trouble.

When Glenn arrived, the Rev. Mr. Erwin was in the church parking lot, ringed by six or eight teen-agers. The pastor said some of the boys had been drinking beer and, when he asked them to go, they cursed.

Glenn also told the boys to get going, but they refused. He said he would take the license number of their car and call police, and one boy stepped in front of the car to shield the license plate. As Glenn pushed him aside, the youth took a swing at him and missed. Glenn pinned the boy's arms against the car, got the license number and called police from the church.

When they arrived the youths fled.

The Rev. Mr. Erwin said the youths did not recognize Glenn, and "did not know I am a minister."

BOYLE'S Grab Bag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Every now and then a business firm has an unusually good year and the question arises—what to do with the extra profit bonanza?

A proposal to pass it on to the stockholders is quickly rejected by cooler heads. After all, that would only spoil them—and set a dangerous precedent.

"Why don't we spend the dough modernizing the office?" suggests someone. "The place is looking a little shabby, and there are a number of things we could do to make it more efficient."

"Good idea," says the boss crisply. "We'll start at once."

It does sound like a good idea at first. Who wouldn't be in favor of a neater, shinier, more up-to-date office?

LIKE SECOND HOME

Well, it turns out—just about everybody.

To a veteran employee, his office surroundings are his home away from home. He likes things the way they are. He looks upon any proposed change as a potential management plot against his welfare and comfort.

If you have ever survived an office remodeling project, there are a few reactions you are probably familiar with.

When the first workman shows up, a wild rumor spreads that the firm has been sold to a competitor.

SECOND RUMOR

A second rumor runs fast on the heels of the first. A giant new automation machine is being installed that will throw half the employees out of their jobs.

To calm these fears, the boss tucks up a brief note on the bulletin board explaining there is nothing to worry about—the place is just being remodeled to make everybody healthier and happier on the job.

A grievance committee calls on management to explain why, if this is so, the union wasn't called into consultation on the remodeling plans.

The boss spends a week pointing out that, if he asked each employee his individual preferences, the job would never get done.

THREATEN TO QUIT

Six 25-year-men threaten to quit if they can't keep their old swivel chairs. They say the new swivel chairs don't fit.

A delegation from the female employees calls on the personnel head to complain they don't like the fabric on the new couch in the ladies' room.

In the midst of the redecorating, the boss takes a month's vacation—just to get away from it all.

When he gets back the job is done, the office staff has settled down, and the head of the employees' grievance committee grumbles to him:

"What took management so long to make up its mind to let a little light and air into this office? It used to be like working in a dungeon."

Light Plane Is Forced To Land

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP)—Lt. Whitney of Jennings, La., escaped injury Wednesday when he made an emergency landing with his single-engine airplane on a blocked-off section of Route 33 near Somerset.

Whitney, en route from Elmira, N. Y., to Jennings, wanted to land at Somerset County Airport because of bad weather, but the landing strip was buried under six inches of snow. He then put the plane down on a section of the highway where traffic was halted.

SLAYER CUTS OWN THROAT; UNDER GUARD

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—A 65-year-old man, accused of slaying two elderly women, remained under heavy guard at Williamsport Hospital today after attempting to take his own life with a razor blade, authorities said.

Edward R. Robbins was rushed to the hospital Wednesday night after slashing his throat five times in his cell at the Lycoming County Prison, according to officials.

Robbins apparently used the blade to shave Wednesday morning, then hid it in his clothing, jail officials theorized.

Hospital officials listed him in satisfactory condition. Almost 70 stitches were required to close his wounds, they said.

The attempted suicide came just hours after Lycoming County Court agreed to appoint a sanity commission to examine the prisoner.

Judge Charles F. Greevy authorized the commission on the request of Michael Casale, court-appointed counsel for Robbins.

Robbins is charged with fatally shooting Mabel Major and Alice Miller, both in their late 60s, at a rooming house here last week.

In another development Wednesday, police reported finding some $6,000 in cash in various parts of Miss Major's apartment. They also found a will, but with no beneficiaries specified.

NEW YORK (AP)—Gordie Howe got his 500th, but the Rangers got the game.

"Real pleased," Howe admitted after producing his 500th National Hockey League goal in Wednesday night's 3-2 loss to the New York Rangers.

"I just wish it could have been the difference in the game," the 33-year-old veteran said.

The difference, however, was New York Captain Andy Bathgate, the league's leading scorer who produced two goals, including the winner on a penalty shot.
